End of Long Algerian War Now in Sight

TUNIS (AP) — Algerian rebel leaders propose now to open the ultimate phase of peace negotiations with France and it should end with a cease fire in Algeria, a rebel spokesman said today.

Information Minister Mohamed Yazid told newsmen the logical windup of the negotiations would be the close of the 7½ year old Algerian rebellion.

A green light to enter the final negotiations was given in an announcement by the rebels' 54 member parliament—the National Council of the Algerian revolution, which had met secretly in Tripoli, Libya, for six days to weigh Paris-approved peace terms. The wording of the announcement indicated no major obstacles remain.

Provisional Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda's government in the opinion of various rebel sources was given a free hand by the council to sign a pact with France after further talks.

"After a discussion of the negotiations with the government of the French republic," the parliament's communiqué said, "the National Council of the Algerian Revolution orders the provisional government of the Algerian republic to continue the negotiations in course."

Informed sources in Tripoli said Tuesday the parliament was set to announce approval of the terms which the French cabinet endorsed last week.

New Infantry Group To Enter West Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—A new battle group of 1,500 American soldiers will move into West Berlin early next month, less than two months after arrival in West Germany from the United States the U.S. Army Command announced today.

The 2nd Battle Group of the 47th Infantry, stationed in Augsburg since it participated in maneuvers in January, will replace the 1st Battle Group of the 19th Infantry as part of the American garrison in the divided city.

The motor movement of 3,000 men is regarded as a new assertion of Western rights to use the 110-mile highway lifeline through Communist-ruled East Germany.

U. S. Fighting With One Hand Tied in Cold War Struggle

Nixon Criticizes Trading Between Allies, Communists

BY RICHARD M. NIXON
(Copyright 1962 by Richard M. Nixon and Times Mirror Syndicate, Los Angeles, Calif.)
(Reproduction in Whole or in Part Prohibited)

At a time that the Communists are waging all out cold war with no holds barred against the free world the United States is fighting with one hand tied behind its back.

While the United States has clamped down on trade with the Communist nations our NATO allies whose economies we helped to restore with the Marshall Plan are now conducting a flourishing business with the Soviet bloc.

We must stop pulling in different directions before it is too late. The national administration should adopt as a top priority target the development of a solid Western front on trade policies in all dealings with the Communist bloc. It should launch a diplomatic offensive aimed at convincing our allies that the fight against communism is not a spare-time hobby to be fought after the profitable deal has been made.

We are engaged in an unconditional battle in which the weapons are political psychological and economic as well as military. Yet on the economic level the free world has a bad case of economic schizophrenia. Since the death of Stalin in 1953 the Soviet Union's imports from the West have almost quadrupled — from $400 mil-

4-State Area Damaged by Raging Floods

Rain-Swollen Rivers Pour Into Kentucky Lowlands

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Damaging floodwaters from rain-swollen rivers and streams poured across broad lowland areas in Kentucky and three adjacent states today driving hundreds of persons from their homes.

The late winter floods in the wake of persistent heavy rains appeared to have caused the most damage and inconvenience in eastern and southeastern Kentucky.

There was much flooding and evacuation of families in West Virginia and Tennessee. In Ohio several rivers were above flood stage but the situation did not appear critical immediately.

Isolated Communities

At least two communities in Kentucky and one in West Virginia were isolated by the rising floodwaters. Scores of roads were blocked including 50 in Kentucky. Some main highways in both Kentucky and West Virginia were impassable because of overflows and mudslides.

Many schools were closed in the water-soaked areas of Kentucky and West Virginia. One death was reported in West Virginia.

Thousands of acres of farmland in the flood-stricken region were inundated.

No immediate estimate of the over all damage was made but it appeared likely property losses might run into the millions of dollars.

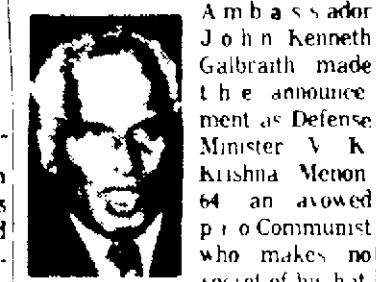

Although rains diminished during the night in parts of the soggy areas of western Tennessee and Kentucky the Weather Bureau forecast rain or rain mixed with snow in most of the eastern half of the nation including much of the region menaced by the overflows.

However the Weather Bureau said colder and drier air headed into western Tennessee and Kentucky and should diminish the rainfall considerably during the day.

U. S. Move Comes Despite Smashing Election Victory By Pro-Communist Menon

BY KEYES BEECH
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW DELHI — The United States today announced more loans to India totalling $150,000,000.

Menon

Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith made the announcement as Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, 64, an avowed pro-Communist who makes no secret of his hatred for the United States, rolled up a smashing victory in India's third national elections since independence.

With about two thirds of the ballots counted it appeared Menon will hold his parliamentary seat by a majority of 100,000 votes.

The new loans were part of $345,000,000 pledged by the United States to help finance the first year of India's third five year plan. Of this $136,600,000 will be in cash of which $100,000,000 will be used to pay for critically needed industrial and farm products.

"Probably Our Fault"

In response to a question from an Indian reporter Galbraith said it was probably our fault that only $272,000,000 of the pledged $345,000,000 has so far been committed.

However he added more loans will be announced during the next few weeks.

Galbraith refused to bite when another Indian newsmen suggested the United States might lose to Russia — as in the case of United Arab Republic's Aswan Dam — the privilege of paying for a new government owned steel mill. Cost of the mill has been estimated from $400,000,000 to twice that amount.

However for good measure Galbraith disclosed the United States is giving to India one of the most varied animal cargoes since Noah's Ark.

Bidwell Quits Presidency of N. Y. Exchange

Resignation Follows Federal Indictment On Tax Evasion

NEW YORK (AP)—J. Truman Bidwell has resigned the powerful post of chairman of the Board of Governors of the New York Stock Exchange following a federal grand jury indictment charging him with evading $55,000 in income taxes.

He claimed persecution from high places in Washington, and said neither the investing public nor the stock exchange is involved.

The government too took pains to emphasize that the indictment dealt with Bidwell's personal taxes and had nothing to do with his activities at the exchange.

Bidwell

Nevertheless the indictment added fire to the persistent rumors of a widespread tax investigation in the securities field.

The Internal Revenue Service began its tax investigation of Bidwell more than three years ago. Last year the Securities and Exchange Commission turned an investigative eye on Wall Street that resulted in a shakeup at the American Stock Exchange.

The SEC probe was based on charges of abuse of trading rules and tight domination of the American Exchange. It resulted last month in the resignations of President Edward T. McCormick and Board Chairman Joseph Reilly.

2 Count Indictment

The two-count indictment handed up against Bidwell 58 Tuesday accused him of concealing capital gains and faking expenses for travel charitable contributions and entertainment.

The grand jury charged Bidwell with listing joint income with his wife for 1956 and 1957 at $124,404, when the actual income totaled $208,202. It said Bidwell listed taxes for the two years as $55,035, when the figure should have been $110,943.

Conviction could put him in prison for a maximum of 5 years and carries the possibility of a fine up to $10,000.

Special Board of Inquiry Winding Up Quizzing of U2 Pilot

WASHINGTON (AP) — U2 spy pilot Francis Gary Powers may step out of the deep pocket of secrecy within a few days. But where or when wasn't made clear.

Officials said Tuesday a special inquiry board was winding up its questioning of Powers 32 and was reported to have decided he had conducted himself about as well as possible under the circumstances when he was downed in the Soviet Union.

Powers the officials said would be available by Thursday to appear before any congressional committee that wants to talk to him. He has been tucked away in seclusion since the Russians freed him Feb. 10.

Availability

President Kennedy said at his news conference last week that the Powers inquiry would be completed by the middle of this week and the pilot then would be available to Congress and the press.

Informants indicated Tuesday that the flier could talk with the press after he appears before a congressional committee.

'Sky's the Limit' for New York's Welcome to Astronaut John Glenn

NEW YORK (AP)—It takes a real American hero to make New York turn handspins in the way of a celebration. But that's just what it will have Thursday—Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. and his fellow astronauts—and that's why the sky will be the limit.

Gotham is preparing for one of its biggest blastoffs of all times weather permitting.

As the New York Times put it a reception fit for a king is being planned by the city for Glenn America's first flesh and blood Buck Rogers, and his six fellow astronauts.

Record Administration

Police said they couldn't estimate how many of the city's eight million residents would turn out but that they were expecting something close to a record demonstration if the weather is fair.

In any case Glenn and colleagues will get the royal treatment.

There'll be the traditional ticker tape parade from the Battery to City Hall for formal greetings from Mayor Robert F. Wagner and others. Afterward there will be a procession to the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel for a luncheon and other festivities.

For the occasion Lower Broadway's name will be changed to "astronauts way."

Schools located along the honored party's route from La Guardia Airport to lower Manhattan will permit teachers to take pupils out to see the motorcade go by.

TV and Radio

In other schools students by the thousands will watch the day's activities on television or keep up with them by radio.

At City Hall, Wagner will read a proclamation designating Feb. 28—the day Glenn orbited the earth three times—as "Astronaut

Job Reduction on Railroads Backed

Presidential Commission Says Featherbedding Should be Eliminated on Nation's Trains

WASHINGTON (AP)—A presidential commission recommended today that labor unions give the nation's railroads broad leeway to streamline operations and eliminate thousands of jobs found unnecessary to run the trains.

The commission, reporting to President Kennedy, said that the railroads have been saddled with costly featherbedding rules and practices requiring pay for unneeded work.

Most locomotive firemen were found to serve no useful purpose and gradual elimination of their jobs was recommended.

But the commission also had much to say about the plight of the rail workers, whose ranks have dwindled from more than 1,000,000 in 1950 to less than 600,000 today. The study was completed only with the problems of the 200,000 rail operating employees—those manning the moving trains.

The report brought an angry dissent from the commission's union members who said it may lead to a nationwide strike. It was also disappointing to the rail industry which had hoped for greater savings than will be immediately possible.

The rail industry quickly accepted the recommendations but the unions flatly rejected them.

The Association of American Railroads, speaking for the industry, said the commission findings represent an important contribution to the welfare of the country and when made effective should stabilize employment and enable the carriers to improve service.

Jobs Lost

The unions said they stood to lose 80,000 jobs by conservative estimates and expressed determination that the railroad operating employees will not become the sacrificial lamb who must be discarded in order to subsidize managerial incompetence.

The five unions involved called emergency meetings over the next two weeks to consider strike votes among their members.

Simon H. Rifkind, former New York U.S. District judge and the commission chairman, expressed confidence that if both sides used the report as a candle to light their way and not as a radiator to heat them up, early agreement could be reached to help put the rail industry back on its feet.

Kennedy May Announce New U. S. Testing

White House Makes No Statement on Possible Resumption

WASHINGTON (AP)—According to his announced timetable, President Kennedy now is in a position to decide whether to go ahead with nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The White House declined to say whether Kennedy has reached a verdict, as he said he would by the end of February.

Kennedy has indicated he will direct a resumption of atmospheric tests because of Soviet gains in the Russian 50 atmospheric explosions last fall which broke the atomic test moratorium.

New Plan Announced By Britain for Northern Rhodesia

LONDON (AP)—Britain today announced a new constitutional plan for Northern Rhodesia which could open the way to an African majority in a multiracial parliament.

The announcement came as Sir Roy Welensky, premier of the Central African Federation, in which includes Northern Rhodesia, flew in unopposed with a threat to use force if necessary to keep his federation intact.

The constitutional proposal, which could cause a hue and cry in the continent in view of the commitment in favor of the union on the part of the House of Commons, was announced today.

State College Makes New Offer to City For LaCrosse Land

LA CROSSE (AP)—The State Board of College Regents has offered the city of LaCrosse $71,200 for a 2 1/2 acre site on which it wants to build a new physical education building for LaCrosse College.

City officials said Tuesday the offer is $21,200 more than was offered previously. The city used the land as a parking lot for events at Memorial Stadium. It claims its value is $100,000.

Police Investigating Death Of Suburban Chicago Man

RIVERDALE, Ill. (AP)—Chicago Police Crime Laboratory technicians have been called into help investigate the death of a man whose nude, beaten body was found in a wooded area Tuesday by three teenage girls.

The victim, whose clothes were piled near the body, also may have been tortured, police said, because the neck of one of his toes was ripped off.

Tentatively Identified

The body was tentatively identified by Cook County sheriff's police as that of Eugene McGinnis of Inverdale, a south Chicago suburb. Identification was made through a license number on a key chain ornament found in the victim's clothing.

Police said McGinnis was not known to have a criminal record. There was no wallet in the clothing and 65 cents in the pockets the police said.

McGinnis' wife Catherine identified the clothes found in the woods as her husband's and officials planned to have her look at the body. She said her husband, 37, a machinist, had left home Monday to visit relatives in Beloit, Wis.

Found Body

The girls came upon the body, police said, while strolling through an area known as Whistler's Woods. There were no signs that a struggle took place, police said.

A preliminary examination showed that bruises on the body probably were not sufficient to cause death. Deputy Coroner Cornelius Dore said it is possible he said that the victim was left in the woods before dawn and died of exposure.

U. S. Fighting Cold War 'With One Hand Tied,' Nixon Claims

one of his most important deals. Khrushchev explained that the Soviet Union gained new chemical enterprises without wasting time on creation of plans and mastering of the production of new types of equipment.

The answer is plain. Western productivity, technical know-how and trade add up to one of our best weapons. We must use it in the cold war.

Trade and economic sanctions must be wielded as a lever at the bargaining table to move the Russians from their intransigent position. The Berlin Wall might have crumbled in a week if we had threatened a complete economic embargo on East Germany. The Soviet Union's support of guerrillas in South Viet Nam and in Laos might well have been traded on a quid pro quo basis for the right to buy Western goods.

One Hand Tied

The United States should not have to fight the Cold War with one hand tied behind its back. If we are to join with our NATO allies in a common bond of military defense against Communism, then they should join with us on the economic front. The West, the economic front, the United States can do.

Webb and his colleagues are not sportsmen but realists. None is more realistic than Glenn himself.

Cold War Weapon

The Soviet Union certainly recognizes the value of trade as a cold war weapon. Under developed neutral nations have been lured into their grasp by give-away trade agreements. The Soviets have deliberately unloaded vast quantities of tin, aluminum, lead and zinc at a loss in order to upset the world market and to generate economic difficulties in the non Communist nations.

It is time we used that weapon. The current seven-year plan of the Soviet Union is based upon continued trade with the West. The Soviet economy could be seriously disrupted by cutting off that trade. The satellite countries are even more dependent on our trade. And Communist China, which is following the same course of buying Western technology as did the Soviet Union in the 1930s, could be thrown into chaos if the Western allies joined the United States in a quarantine against that outlaw country.

Space Men Try to Keep Feet on Earth

Project Mercury Most Important Task Before U. S., Chief Says

WASHINGTON — The nation's space effort appears to be in the hands of men with a remarkable ability to keep their feet on the ground.

While this orbit-conscious capital continues to exult over Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr.'s flight through outer space, officials of the National Aeronautical and Space Agency are striving to keep the event in perspective.

James E. Webb, the head of NASA for example is opposed to sending Glenn abroad on a good will mission.

'We have work to do,' Webb says in effect. Let our accomplishments speak for themselves.

Project Important

After a two-hour meeting at Cape Canaveral last Friday, Webb said NASA officials decided the successful completion of the Mercury Project is the most important thing the United States can do.

Webb and his colleagues are not sportsmen but realists. None is more realistic than Glenn himself.

Webb, the 56-year-old NASA administrator, has a sort of rah-rah enthusiasm about the space program himself. But as a one-time budget director and treasury official as well as an undersecretary of state under President Truman, he is aware of bureaucratic and congressional pitfalls.

Land for Highways

It is disturbing to read the testimony of the state highway department, flanked by its sister county highway departments, about the failures of the revised eminent domain laws as they govern acquisition of lands for highway right-of-way

The laws as they are now written were completely reformed we were told, as recently as 1957 when the legislature with the backing of the governor set up extensive studies intended to make them fair to the landowners on the one hand, and the general public which is being tapped for a steadily higher aggregate of road building taxes on the other. Now we deduce from some of the worried statements to a new legislative committee that the new law permits exorbitant land value awards, and that the cost of right-of-way acquisition has become so high that it may become a barrier to the relocation of highways and the construction of new routes for more efficient transportation service.

We don't propose to offer any advice on the matter. This is an exceptionally difficult topic. The condemnation laws have always been complex because of the very nature of the conflicts they cover. But lately the awards have been so high and so inconsistent and the appraisals for the guidance of the courts and juries so casually contradictory that it is clearly time for the legislature to examine the subject again.

One responsible highway administrator has observed after reflecting upon the patternless record of awards in a representative selection of cases during the last year that there is real doubt that the power of "eminent domain" which is supposed to be held by the state and the counties has any meaningful force today.

Central to the problem as we have observed the discussions is the competency of the appraisal process. Here there evidently are grave doubts among the public officials involved and the record in court cases tends to support them. What about the qualifications of these men whose word is accepted for hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of litigation? Should they be required to prove their "expertness"? Maybe this is a matter for the Wisconsin real estate brokers board which is so attentive to its professional interests that it doesn't like to permit even a small landowner to sell a spare lot for a building site without retaining a licensed broker.

Newspapers Bought and Read

The U.S. Department of Commerce has just announced results of a study which show that American newspapers not only are purchased in vast numbers every day but more important, they are read. And, from the comments we hear they are read with a critical eye by people of all shades of political opinion, economic status and degrees of education.

The Department of Commerce study shows that more than 86 per cent of the 54 million households in the United States purchase a daily paper. This means that more than 45 million households, averaging something over two persons each, look to the newspaper for the vast amounts of information they must have to keep up with what's going on in an increasingly complex world. The mere fact of newspaper purchases however does not mean anything standing by itself since an unread newspaper is worthless.

The figures on readership compiled by the Department of Commerce, provide the inescapable conclusion that people buy newspapers to read them or if the purchaser doesn't, some one in his household does. The survey showed that 80 per cent of those over 21 years of age read the paper daily. 72 per cent of those between 15 and 20 years old do the same and likewise 98 per cent of those with a college education. 94 per cent of those who finished high school and 80 per cent of those with a grade school education. Further, the study shows that readership cuts across all economic lines from those with low salaries or wages through those in the very top brackets. We think this is proof enough that a newspaper is regarded as a valuable instrument of information for all categories of citizens.

This may be belaboring the point but the fact is that no other medium of communication can offer individual citizens as complete and balanced an account of local, state, national and international events as the daily newspaper. This is a real challenge to those in the newspaper profession and there is ample evidence that newspapers themselves are striving to fulfill their important role in reporting and interpreting events which are related to their readers' welfare. More and more emphasis is being placed by newspapers on their news content leaving the entertainment to other forms of communication which have been established primarily for that purpose.

He Was Prepared

The notice given in Green Bay to Kenneth Barnhart, 16-year-old Boy Scout who saved his mother's life by mouth to mouth resuscitation emphasizes the importance of training for emergency given by various youth organizations.

A great deal of time sometimes seems to be spent upon preparations for trouble that never comes. The majority of us will, we hope, never be called upon to rescue a drowning person, to apply pressure to stop violent bleeding, to keep an injured person warm and quiet until a doctor is summoned. But as young Mr. Barnhart demonstrated, such knowledge is of the utmost importance. And just as essential is the ability to keep calm and remember what to do when a person's life is at stake.

Kenneth Barnhart deserves the congratulations he is receiving. And the organizations and particular units which gave him the instruction that enabled him to save his mother's life deserve the applause and support of any community in which they may operate.

A Year Makes Changes

Polaris Sub Crews Now Accepted by Scots

By William H. Stoneham

Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

LONDON — A year ago on March 3 the American people were shocked by the noisy, hostile reception that greeted the Polaris submarine tender Proteus when it arrived in Holy Loch, Scotland.

A comparative handful of nuclear disarmers spurred on by a few secret Communists made it look as though the British people were opposed to having American Polaris submarines using the Scottish anchorage.

A 20-hour sitdown strike by nuclear disarmament hikers on May 22 strengthened the impression.

Even those who realized that the demonstration didn't represent the feelings of the British people resented the fact that the British authorities didn't prevent it.

Carry 16 Missiles

The American Polaris subs each carrying 16 missiles with nuclear warheads and a range of some 1,500 miles represent a principal protection that Britain, as well as the United States, had against a Russian nuclear attack.

Today, a year from the arrival of the Proteus, most Britishers have forgotten that Holy Loch exists.

The Proteus is still there, servicing five Polaris submarines — the George Washington, the Patrick Henry, Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee and Theodore Roosevelt.

cars living a Holy Loch in cluding 600 dependents. Three Scottish towns have adopted Polaris subs. Americans attend local churches of all denominations. Capt. Walter F. Schlech, who commands submarine Squadron 14, is a devout Catholic and an active churchgoer.

Wives are Active

American officers make an average of a dozen speeches a month to local businessmen's clubs. Their wives are active in organizing such local activities as flower shows. American sailors compete in swimming, tennis and basketball tournaments with teams from nearby towns, sail in the popular local dunchie contests and intend to enter the Highland games next year.

At the latest Cowe games the local pipe band was reviewed by Capt. Richard B. Lanning, the veteran submarine and accomplished diplomat who commands the Proteus. This ship carries a million different spare parts for the Polaris subs which come in to be serviced after spending two months at sea. It also has a staff of nearly 1,000 officers and men, most of them highly trained in nuclear and electronic technicians.

More Number Take Place of Former Names

From The New York World Telegram

Because the phone companies have run out of exchange names, all number numbers are fast becoming, with totality due by 1968.

Some harrowing experiences are recounted by Newsweek. Such as the man who tried for a Texas number and got Honolulu. The New York housewife who misdialed the Connecticut code and got Los Angeles. The Californian who got police headquarters in Vancouver, B.C.

But Americans are a hardy people who have the ingenuity to survive even progress. Some of them are inventing exchange names to fit the numbers, such as Incoherent 5. Instead of 465. Their triumph also will be brief — since eventually letters will be eliminated from phone dials.

And probably it would be folly not to suppose that A. G. Bell's descendants are already at work on some spookier system to spring on the public when the company runs out of numerical combinations.

Locals have even invited the American sailors to share their salmon and sea trout rivers.

It is possible that the Communies or the long hairs will try to organize another act of demonstrations to mark the first anniversary of the Proteus arrival.

But they are likely to get a very hot reception if they do and it won't be the U.S. Navy that has to handle them.

Lutheran Pastor Doesn't Want Federal Aid for Parochial Schools

Editor, Post-Crescent

A year and a half ago I read newspaper articles telling Protestants they were bigoted if they didn't vote for a Catholic for president. The religious issue hit way below the Protestant belt line. For the past few weeks I have been reading articles demanding tax supported religious schools. Some of these articles hit equally low below the belt. Cardinal Spellman said: "Equal rights for all children. That is precisely what we have now. Tax support for parochial schools would be unequal rights. I would like to point out several reasons why tax supported parochial schools are not practical and why they are undemocratic."

1. A church doesn't operate a school for the fun of it. It operates a school for the benefit of the church. If the taxpayer is forced to help support a private school it is exactly the same as forcing him to help support a religion in which he may not believe. The reason the founding fathers of our Constitution were so determined to guarantee freedom of worship to its citizens was because they had seen the genocidal result of a state church.

2. The minute any segment of our government, whether local, state or federal, decides to dish out public money for the support of church schools, every church in town has the right to build a school. It would be impossible to do the job fairly. As it is now, all the children in a local situation have the same right to receive an education. If in large cities, large churches decide to operate a school on their own budget, that is their business.

3. A part of our American heritage states that the taxpayer has a voice directly or indirectly in any organization supported by his tax dollar. Mr. American citizen has no vote in determining the Roman Catholic hierarchy and all the policies come to us from a foreign country and that country believes in and practices a dictatorship.

4. A church that expects help from the tax dollar should also be taxed.

There are many more reasons I am opposed to tax aid to parochial schools but this will suffice for now. I will welcome comments either in the paper or by letter to me.

Railroad Route May be Changed

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for Feb. 27, 1962

The Bill authorizing the Chicago and North Western Railway Company to contract for a new line of road terminating at Neenah has passed both houses of the Legislature.

Under cover of the change of route required for running through Neenah and Menasha, the Company has empowered — so far as the consent of the Legislature is concerned — to change the whole route so as to run around by Fort Howard.

Whether the Company can succeed as well in Congress or not remains to be seen. But that the sanction of Congress surely will be granted to an unopposed application sanctioned by the (state) Legislature is as evident as that darkness follows day.

Our citizens — every one of them — know their duty. It will be our pleasant or unpleasant task hereafter to record in these columns how they have discharged the same. It is useless to say any more than this.

GOP. Candidates to Hit State Spending

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The diagnosis of an emerging conservatism or moderation among the voters that is offered by some of the Republican organization men is echoed obviously in the pre-campaign speeches of the men who are competing for top places on the party's state ticket.

he isn't interested in the organization endorsement and will put his name on the primary election ballot whatever is done at Milwaukee, is also striking a uniformly conservative theme.

Indeed, the Dane county farmer in his current speeches is virtually baying for support to the idea of fiscal prudence, an arresting of the taxation spiral, and a stabilization of the scope and size of governmental expenditures and services.

Philip Kuehn, Warren Knowles or Wilbur Renk will win the Republican nomination for Governor, as far as the September outlook can be reasonably forecast today. There may very well be other names on the ballot, but they are not likely to figure significantly in the decisions.

Kuehn and Knowles are principally occupied today with making friends and making an impression among the local organization workers who will be delegates at the endorsement convention in Milwaukee May 25. Party organizations tend to be more uncompromising in their views than the party electorate they represent on the whole. A Republican convention will typically stand somewhere to the right of the average Republican voter. A Democratic convention similarly in Wisconsin at least, usually stands more dogmatically on the liberal side of the political system than does the voter of Democratic voting habits.

CONSISTENCY

The candidates are aware of that characteristic of party conventions and doubtless that has influenced the pre-convention utterances of Kuehn and Knowles as they hit on the popular conceptions of conservative government — including the issues of spending and taxation, individual economic enterprise, local government responsibility and the rest.

But Mr. Renk, the man who announced his candidacy in the terms of the maverick who said

City Should Open Drives, Shoveler Says

Editor, Post-Crescent

I read with interest some one's comment on snow plows filling our drive ways and I think an answer to the problem could be in a very few words.

Why not have one man or two with the plows to shovel out our drive ways which could be done in five or ten minutes before the snow and ice freezes where it takes us at least a half hour.

I am quite sure that 75 per cent of the people in Appleton would gladly be willing to have fifty or seventy cents or even a dollar put on their tax bill for this extra service. Come on all you weak backs what do you think?

'Milwaukee' Has Come Long Way Since It Was Known as 'Millioke'

BY CHARLES HUNNE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Nobody knows for sure what the name of Wisconsin's largest city really ought to be. We call it Milwaukee.

But is it "Millioke" as it was called in the August 1801 relations for 1879 which described La Salle's visit there?

Or is it "Mellioke" which is the spelling used by Father Zamboni's Memoirs who wrote about the river of that name in 1889?

A French map-maker, in 1768, decided that it was really "Malacki" when he printed a map in that year. Nevertheless, 15 years later another of his maps identified the region as "Mellioke."

Another map-maker, this one British, who published a book called "Winter-Betham's View of the United States" decided, in that year (1790), that the village on the site of this present city of Milwaukee should be called "Wlakia" which just could happen to be correct.

Obviously the name is an Indian word — perhaps "Mahnawakkee" — which means something like "gathering place by the rivers."

So "Mahnawakkee" could be its proper name, too.

But if we believe that it is proper to adjust Indian words to our own version of them, for the sake of convenience, then what should that great city be called?

Although most of Milwaukee of 1862 had almost agreed on an accepted if not proper spelling of the name, the U.S. Post Office had not come along on that point of view.

In 1862, the post office was using "Milwaukee" as its proper monicker.

Double E

For years too the Milwaukee Sentinel had been calling the city "Milwaukee," but, by 1894 it succumbed to the terminal, double, just as most of Milwaukee's citizens were doing at that time.

Too often, interpreters of the Indian languages were ill-equipped to make a suitable translation. Obviously, because of inadequate translations, the name of the city has been abused into something for which it was not intended.

One notable mis-translation of the name of a famed Indian has caused him to go down in history books as something of a coward. His name, translated badly, is forever recorded in books as "young man afraid of his horses."

But had the interpreter been more exact, he might have given the man the dignity that his name demanded, a better translation of the Indian's name as "young man who is so bold that his very horses are to be feared." Besides being more accurate, it is more creditable to the memory of a brave man.

Garbled Words

We have not treated our Indian words well, and most place-names in our state which have been derived from Indian words are hopelessly garbled.

Nevertheless, as in the case of Milwaukee, we are stuck with the names as they now stand. It is well to know that — before the coming of the White Man — the Indians had, as they have said, "no word to make a swear."

If they had been a profane people, we would have had some place names of protective splendor.

Happy Days There Again In Australia

Autos Cheaper, Jobs Plentiful, Tax Cut Assured

BY GORDON TAIT
SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australians are smiling these days. The sun is shining, autos are cheaper, there are more jobs, they can borrow more money to build a house — and they are getting a cut in income tax.

"Christmas comes twice this year," said the Melbourne Age in an editorial.

Back in November 1960, the government fearful of inflation in the then booming conditions imposed economic restrictions. These made money tight, knocked the bottom out of the auto industry, caused unemployment, slowed industry, sliced into company profits and made Australia look less attractive to would-be migrants.

Halted Inflation

The measures about halted inflation and improved Australia's overseas trade balance, but unemployment continued.

Last week Prime Minister Robert G. Menzies announced measures to stimulate the economy and restore employment.

A 5 per cent income tax cut was dated back to July 1, 1961. As most Australians handle personal income tax on the pay-as-you-go system, enzes said the cut for the year would be squared off by giving 15 per cent reductions for four months.

An immediate cut from 30 to 22 1/2 per cent in sales tax on new automobiles lowered the price of the cheapest six seater compact to $2,354.

Advance Increased

An increase in the maximum advance to war veterans to build homes from $6,160 to $7,840 was announced.

Increased payments to unemployed who lack other means of support came.

There were some other measures — increased advances to states, a promise to speed government works and tax allowances to companies putting in new plants.

The result was electric Share prices advanced strongly. Business leaders said the measures would lift the level of spending and thus ease unemployment.

Some fears have been expressed that the injection of extra cash into people's pockets will spark a new inflationary trend but few working people appear concerned.

Win Big Exciting Volume By Picking Out Wrong Clock

BY CAPPY DICK

Of all the clocks in the picture there's one where the number on its bell is wrong. Can you find it?

If you can you may become the winner of two prizes — one, a set of five tiny tools that actually work the other a 12 volume set of the Encyclopedia Britannica "Great Books for Children."

land," "Andersen's Fairy Tales," "Alice in Wonderland," "Robin Hood," "Arabian Nights," "Heidi," "Black Beauty," "King Arthur," "Tales from Shakespeare" and in the 12th book "Pinocchio" and "Aesop's Fables."

The miniature tool set which is the local prize consists of a pair of tiny scissors that will actually cut paper, a tiny pair of shears (an inch and one eighth long), a pair of pliers that open and close, a screwdriver one and three-eighths inches long and a tiny pocketknife. The tools are made of metal and are equipped with an eyelet so that they can be worn as charms.

To solve the puzzle and try for these prizes, look carefully at the clocks in the picture above. On the bell of each clock is printed a number. This numeral is the total of the two figures at which the hands of the clock are pointing. There is one exception. The total printed on the bell of that clock is not correct. When you have discovered which clock it is, mark it in any neat way so the contest judges will know the one you have selected.

Then, clip out the picture card. Print your name, age and address beneath it. With paints, crayons, cutouts or any other material is judged to be one of the 5 trials of your choice. Decorate your entry in any neat original way. Address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek Contest at the Post for the "Great Books for Children." Five sets of books will be awarded, one for each of the five. Names of the prize winners will be published here. Decisions of where this column is published the judges will be final. All entries will automatically become the property of Cappy Dick. None can be returned.

Indian Affairs Unit Plans Told by Nash

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philo Nash, commissioner of Indian Affairs, testified Tuesday his agency plans to concentrate on the economic and human development of America's Indians and expansion of education for them.

Help Your Child Succeed in School—8
Keeping Curiosity Alive Is a Major Task

BY LESLIE J. NABON, D. Ed.
Professor of Education

By the very nature of formal education, schools as they are set up in this country stifle curiosity and creativity and reward conformity.

Too bad, you say? Of course it is.

But look at the other side of the coin. The teacher has 30 little wigglers in her class. She must see that the lessons are learned. Examination time leaves no room for doubt.

Examinations demand facts

They test the child's understanding of ideas. In most examinations the child can imitate nothing. He must know what the textbook said; he must do as the teacher told him to do.

After examination, the subject is closed, as far as the school is concerned.

But wait a minute! Curiosity leads to knowing MORE than the teacher says you must know.

Encourage Curiosity

No matter how good schools are, children need parents who keep curiosity alive. One of the thrilling things about being a parent is the opportunity to encourage—not squelch—curiosity and creativity.

I know a busy mother of five who provides drawing, model-making materials, etc., and places her children on their own during the hour that she prepares dinner.

She never makes the mistake of saying, "Oh, you drew a horse," when the child meant it for a ship. If an adult makes that type of mistake too often, the child quits drawing, or at least quits showing his art to adults.

This mother's youngsters are "self starters." Their curiosities and drives for creative expression are dominant and satisfying.

Not long ago this family went to the desert to a home without children where there were few playthings. The children pounced joyfully on a pile of odd-shaped blocks of wood left over from cabinet work. They concocted boats, castles, cabins, cars. They liked them so much they took them home!

prevent frustration or failure. Encourage him to learn more about each school subject than the teacher requires. This habit will carry over beyond his school years.

If your child has intellectual curiosity, encourage him to ask questions and look up the answers. If he has a project, encourage him, but don't take over. Remember, it is HIS project.

If he starts wondering ETAT? If he starts wondering in the garage, don't crowd around the garage, don't crowd around the garage, don't crowd around the garage.

Let a child do it his own way unless he asks for help or you realize a suggestion from you will communicate.

CREATIVE ACTIVITIES

They Need Chance

Children need chances to practice creativity and they need to exercise their imaginations and go downtown and buy him a complete kit of tools. Let him acquire them, a hammer and a saw at a time. You can smother interest as well as stimulate it.

Zingsheim Against Airport

BY REINY WESSING
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Richard Zingsheim, 907 W. Eorain St., candidate for mayor of Appleton in the April 3 election, doesn't think Outagamie County should waste the taxpayers' money to build a $2½ million airport.

"The present trend of thinking on the airport is juvenile. It's like cutting off your nose to spite your face," he said during a Post-Crescent interview.

"Appleton's taxpayers pay more than half the county taxes, and I don't think the airport will do them that much good," Zingsheim contended.

"If we really want to do something to attract industry and promote the progress and economy of this area I think we should spend that money to build the best and biggest University of Wisconsin extension center in the state right here in Appleton or just out side the city. One that will accommodate from 8,000 to 10,000 students.

Such a facility might be the deciding factor in locating a state office building here to serve metropolitan northeastern Wisconsin.

What are the policies of the three candidates for Appleton mayor? How would they solve the city's immediate problems and tackle the long-range problems? The candidates themselves answered these and other questions in interviews with Post-Crescent city hall reporter Reiny Wessing. This interview with Richard Zingsheim is the last of the series presented by the Post-Crescent to give the city's voters a clearer idea of the views and proposals of the three men seeking to head city government for the two years following the April 3 election.

As just as there is a state office building in Milwaukee.

To build a multi-million dollar airport for a few people who don't want to make the 20 minute trip to the Winnebago County airport is just silly," he said. People in larger cities, even Milwaukee, drive an hour and half to get to an airport.

'Let's Face It'

Let's face it: Winnebago County has the airport. We should concentrate our efforts in another direction," Zingsheim contended.

He said he doesn't favor the present Outagamie County cooperative arrangement with Winnebago County. The UW-Fox Valley Center in Appleton is just silly," he said. People in larger cities, even Milwaukee, drive an hour and half to get to an airport.

The present Outagamie County cooperative arrangement with Winnebago County is just silly," he said. People in larger cities, even Milwaukee, drive an hour and half to get to an airport.

Zingsheim said that if he is elected mayor one of the first problems he will tackle is traffic congestion. He envisions an urban type super highway diagonal across Appleton from northeast to southwest, built on the present Chicago and North Western Railroad right of way.

He said he would like to see the railroad abandon its track through the city. "The amount of industry it serves today is dwindling to practically nothing," he said. "Except for spur tracks the railroad should go straight north from the industrial park and go around the city."

The super highway would start at Meade Street and Wisconsin Avenue, about where the Olson Transportation Co. terminal is now. An interchange at the intersection would solve the traffic hazard and congestion that exists at Meade and Wisconsin, he said.

The super highway would end somewhere in the vicinity of Seaside and Outagamie Streets and feed onto Prospect Avenue. There would be interchanges at all principal intersecting streets. Franklin Street should be extended across the Division. Packard Street's lane to take downtown traffic west and north. There would be a super highway interchange at Division and Franklin.

Zingsheim said he is very much in favor of a civil service system for city employees, the same as is done now for city sealers of weights and measures and civil defense director. Such posts as city assessor, treasurer and clerk also could be put on the civil service system, he says.

Primaries 'Useless'

As far as elective offices are concerned, he thinks primaries are a waste of money and use less because "not enough voters know enough about the candidates to make any difference."

Zingsheim proposes a revolutionary new way for candidates to become known and show their qualifications.

He favors a city ordinance requiring candidates to take an examination possibly prepared by the University of Wisconsin, which would show both their intelligence quotient and qualifications for the office. Candidates taking the examination would sign a waiver allowing the results to be published. Then there should be open forums.

"If someone with a low score wants to run for office, put his name on the ballot. It would be a lot cheaper than a primary."

and the published results of the test and the forums would let the public know how he measures up," Zingsheim says.

He said he favors a central purchasing department for all units of city government, possibly with a depot in the new department of public works building that is scheduled to be built next to the industrial park.

The candidate said he can't see the advantage of having more city representatives on the county board of supervisors. "What we need is fewer supervisors from the towns. Our state constitution is outdated. It should be rewritten so some towns can be combined thus cutting out some rural supervisors," he says.

In a metropolitan area like ours, the county and city are so closely integrated and their aims and interests so closely related that they should be working together more as a single unit. There should not be this wide difference.

Richard Zingsheim

versity in governmental make-up. I think the county executive idea is a good one too," he said.

school purposes only are paying their fair share of school costs. He doesn't think the portion of the school levy they pay is justifiable charge, too," he says.

Zingsheim said he would favor building a city stadium only if it could be used for all types of outdoor games that would benefit the physical well-being and development of all the city's residents. To build it just for high school football games or semi-professional athletics is making poor use of taxpayers' money, he said.

A large youth center is a project high on Zingsheim's list of city needs.

Ideally, he says the youth center should have a three-level parking ramp and a two or three-story commercial building should be built by the city on the two blocks bounded by College Avenue, Lawrence Street and Superior and Walnut streets.

New City Hall

In the future, he says, the commercial building could be remodeled into a new city hall at a minimum cost. Division Street could be extended through the block to help downtown traffic flow.

Acquiring the two-block area would mean acquiring the St. Joseph Parish property and the Capuchin Fathers' farm. Since the Capuchin Fathers own most of the property at Lawrence and Elm streets, Zingsheim proposes the city give them Jones Park as part payment for their land on the north side of Lawrence Street.

The candidate says he believes that Project 70 should be strictly a chamber of commerce project. He said he would not approve using city money or federal funds in any way to subsidize private business. Store improvement and modernization is the merchants' job, he says.

Using federal aid for blight removal is all right, but not for commercial enterprise, he said.

A specific housing ordinance not just a building code and a minimum health standards ordinance should be adopted, the candidate says. He said he would favor a city-wide program of inoculation for such things as flu shots for all children, with parents paying a minimum fee and doctors clients nothing. The doctors have so much work anyway. I think they'd be glad to get that part of their work out of their offices, he commented.

The idea of a central motor pool for all units of city government does not strike Zingsheim as good. "I think it would lead to confusion. I think vehicles get better care when used by a specific department and when assigned to particular drivers," he says.

Getting water from Lake Michigan is so far in the future that it isn't practical to plan in detail now, he said. It may have to be done eventually, but there are more important things to think about now, he said.

The only way regional planning could do Appleton any good is to tie it in with the city's growth and industrial promotion. Zingsheim says. "We don't know for sure what growth is ahead of us. As it occurs, we should use the regional plan for orderly progress. Right now we should concentrate on our industrial park," he said.

The best way to economize and keep the tax rate as stable as possible is to plan and think ahead so that important things get done now before the price doubles and triples, the candidate says.

Assess at Market Value

He believes a more equitable system of property taxes would be to assess at true market value and adjust the tax rate accordingly. If this requires a reassessment, the city should do it, he said.

Zingsheim said he believes in taking advantage of state and federal aid where it makes sense to accept it. "I don't ask for it just for the sake of asking and don't ask for any more than is absolutely necessary. If the city could get $200,000 aid for a project, but really only needs $100,000, then only ask for $100,000," he says.

The most important leadership qualities for a mayor are his ability to understand the problems of the people and city, his ability to form a constructive program to solve those problems and his ability to take that program before the people and get their cooperation. Zingsheim reasons.

Powers May Leave Pocket Of Secrecy

Committee has said definitely that it plans to question Powers Chairman Thomas E. Morgan D-Pa. announced the committee will call Powers at a closed session probably next week.

The Senate Armed Services Committee will decide whether to hear him after it receives a closed-door briefing on the case Thursday from John A. McCone, director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

Working for CIA

Powers presumably was working for the CIA when his high flying photo reconnaissance plane went down in flight over the Soviet Union May 1, 1960. The CIA has never acknowledged publicly Powers was one of its own.

CIA officials who reportedly felt that Powers had let them down by permitting the Russians to capture him and his plane, now are understood to have changed their minds.

Congressional sources said the CIA was reported to be satisfied that the U2 pilot had given the Russians only minimal information.

No Conference

Kennedy will not hold a news conference this week. His news secretary, Pierre Salinger, said the President may hold one next week.

Powers, whom the Russians sentenced to 10 years imprisonment, was exiled in Berlin for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel flown to the United States and has been under questioning at an undisclosed hideaway.

One of the mysteries officials hoped Powers could clear up was for Nehru, when there was an explosion and what exactly brought him down. At his Moscow trial, Powers testified he was at 68,000 feet when there was an explosion and a bright glow near his plane. So a defeat for Menon would have been a crushing blow to Nehru's claim that a super rocket had done the trick.

Congressional sources said Tuesday—as has been reported that for all the charges against it before—that Powers has been on the Congress Party is still the one what had caused the U2 to crash, quit of India in politics.

Aid Applications

He said that from August to December 1961, 675 applications for assistance had been approved in Illinois, 460 were pending, and 624 were denied. He said the average payment was $49 a person.

At present aid is available to persons whose income does not exceed $1,800 a year or $2,800 for a couple.

Opponents have contended Kennedy's plan which would call for a $1 billion increase in Social Security payroll taxes would provide assistance for many persons who do not need financial aid.

No Action Taken

That committee, which has 15 Democratic and 10 Republican members, thus far has failed to move on the medical care issue. There remained doubts that the Republicans would furnish the votes necessary to overcome conservative Democratic opposition to the bill within the group.

The American Medical Association Tuesday repeated its opposition to the Kennedy plan and its support of the Kerr Mills Act.

Jarson said the real issue is not medical care versus no medical care for the elderly. The real issue is: Should wage earners and employers be forced to pay for medical care for millions of themselves?

Guess Who Supplies the Bank Balance?

WASHINGTON — Julian F. Cannon is chief disbursing officer for the Treasury Department, and he's happy over his newest toy—an automatic check-writing setup that shovels out the dough faster than ever.

Cannon told a recent House Appropriations Committee hearing.

"We've been pleased with the results of our first year's operations. On our first day's run, the system successfully processed 140,000 checks. Our largest single day's production was 650,000 checks."

Cannon's money-gadget is an International Business Machines check production center with a master control board, a central computer and seven printers each able to turn out two checks simultaneously at the rate of 700 checks a minute.

FDR Predicted Russia Would Dominate Europe

NEW YORK (AP)—President Franklin D. Roosevelt is quoted in a biography of Francis Cardinal Spellman as saying in 1943 that Russia would dominate Europe after World War II—and that he hoped Europe would be able to adjust to the situation.

Roosevelt also is quoted as telling the cardinal in a White House meeting that he planned to make an agreement by which China would get the Far East, the United States the Pacific and Britain and Russia would divide Europe and Africa.

The biography to be published by Doubleday and Co. Inc., as "The Cardinal Spellman Story" was written by the Rev. Robert J. Gannon, former president of Fordham University. Excerpts appear in this week's issue of Look magazine.

The archbishop's meeting with Roosevelt, Father Gannon wrote, was in September of 1943 after Cardinal Spellman had completed a six-month tour of the fighting fronts.

and his "official greeter," Governor Whelan, made heroic welcomes a trademark in the Twenties.

Among the most fantastic displays ever put on by New Yorkers were those in honor of Charles A. Lindbergh for his 1927 solo flight across the Atlantic, and Gens Dwight D. Eisenhower and Douglas MacArthur.

Lundy—the "Lone Eagle"—probably got the wildest and most spontaneous greeting of all. Like astronaut Glenn, he was relatively unknown until his great achievement.

It was estimated that four million people turned out June 14, 1957 for the New York welcome, which brought everyday life in the city to a standstill. The parade wound through six miles of city streets, from the Battery to Central Park. Every skyscraper window, every inch of space along the way were jammed as never before. Cheers shook the earth.

The Method

Eisenhower, the World War II hero, came to New York on June 19, 1945 and was hailed by masses estimated at four million or more. Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine said it was the city's biggest turnout up to that time.

MacArthur, the hero of World Wars I and II who was fired by President Truman as Far East commander during the Korean war, got his due in New York on April 29, 1951.

No matter who got the biggest and most enthusiastic crowds, one thing is certain—no place on earth does it like New York.

Wisconsin Asked to Give 1,000 Residents Of Michigan Tax Break

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Wisconsin has been asked to give a tax break to Michigan residents working in the neighboring state.

Sen. Phillip Rabel, D-Iron Mountain, introducer of a State Senate resolution, said it would effect about 1,000 persons living in Michigan and working in Wisconsin.

Wisconsin's state income tax requires non-residents to pay a tax on all income earned within the state. Wisconsin residents are allowed to deduct all sales tax, wherever paid, but non-residents may deduct only the sales tax paid within Wisconsin.

The resolution asks the Wisconsin Legislature to grant Michigan residents an equitable deduction for sales taxes paid in Michigan.

the tax laws to give IRS the right to control whisky flavors and said. Even baby food manufacturers are not subjected to this kind of control.

Publisher and Schenley representatives contended the industry and the drinking public should be allowed to decide questions of taste.

The industry has a strong motive for seeking a higher proof limit. More whisky can be produced from a single barrel if the proof is increased at the time of barreling. Barreled whisky is diluted with distilled water after aging and brought down to the proof level at which it is marketed.

Output Per Barrel

A 125-proof limit, as compared with 110 proof, would increase output per barrel by about 13 percent.

Vernon said that since the repeal of prohibition in 1933, the amount needlessly expended for additional barrels and additional warehouse space because of this unnecessary restriction must exceed a hundred million dollars.

The 110-proof limit stemmed originally from a 1909 decision by President William Howard Taft to settle an industry dispute over definitions, ruled that a liquor bottled at 110 proof or less was whisky. Anything above that was a high wine.

(and why now's the time to join 'em)

Styling is really different

Inside and out, Valiant looks like a million—not like a million others. The Valiant Signet 200, America's lowest priced hardtop with bucket seats, for example, recently received the Society of Illustrators' gold medal award for design excellence—the only compact ever to be given such an honor by this organization!

Performance is hard to beat

Just ask all the compacts that have tried and failed for two years running at NASCAR Daytona Beach Speed Weeks. Valiant has a trophy case full of silverware to underline its claim to "King of the Compacts!"

Now at lowest prices ever

Despite its many extra value features, Valiant prices for 1962 are the lowest in Valiant's history. And with resale value in every section of the country underlining its proven worth, this is the ideal time for you to see for yourself why we can state:

To Answer Question of Francis Powers Honor

BY JAMES MCCARTNEY
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON—In the next few days the Kennedy administration expects to provide the public with an answer to the most nagging question of all in the case of Francis Gary Powers—the question of Powers' honor.

In effect, congressmen and senators have warned the White House that the answer had better be good.

If it isn't, attempts may be made on Capitol Hill to blow the lid off the Powers case—a lid that has been sealed tight ever since Powers was swapped for Russian spy Rudolf Abel more than two weeks ago.

What Kind of Bites?

The point is that the question of Powers' honor involves far more than a mere personal matter for himself or his family.

The basic question is: What sort of people is the Central Intelligence Agency hiring to do its spying?

Was it trying to "buy" patriotism from a politically naïve young man for $30,000 a year?

The Kennedy administration has wrapped a cloak of mystery around Powers ever since he was returned in the swap—continuing to play the CIA's spy-like games.

He has absented around mysteriously—his location hidden, his family secretly spirited to meet him.

Secrets From Who?

All this has struck some congressmen as odd indeed, in light of the fact that Powers spent almost two years in Russia, apparently talking to the Russians quite freely.

"I wonder who the government is trying to keep secrets from," asked one congressman, who said he'd rather not be identified.

At least a part of the administration's desire to play secret games with Powers undoubtedly stems from fear that too much talk will lead to too much publicity about the CIA.

It can be accepted as gospel that no spy organization is going to be valuable if it is featured on page one every day for a week, with all its policies exposed.

May Need Checking

Yet there is certainly fear in congress that the CIA, with vast powers to make or influence policy, may badly need checking.

The super-delicate job of trying to provide the public, and congress, with some answers—with out telling too much—has been turned over to a special board of inquiry.

Only the name of the head of the board has been made public by President Kennedy. Other members are just as secret as much of the rest of the Powers case.

The head of the board is E. Barrett Prettyman, 71, a highly respected Washington jurist who retired last year after 15 years on the U. S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Prettyman is not nationally known by any stretch of the imagination, but he has had an excellent reputation locally as a clear thinker with a highly developed judicial temperament.

His "Contract"

For years he was considered the "pivot man" on the nine-member court, working to bring the liberal and conservative wings of the court together. He, himself, was known as a middle-of-the-roader.

The immediate question before the Prettyman board is whether Powers "fulfilled his contract" with the CIA and is entitled to about $50,000 in back pay.

This is just another way of saying: Did he do what he was expected to do, and hired to do, when the chips were down or didn't he?

President Kennedy said there is no far—no evidence that he didn't. But there must be some questions on somebody's mind or no board would have been necessary.

Fraternity Meals May Be Taxed, State Rules

MADISON (AP)—Meals served by fraternities, sororities, private clubs and boarding houses are subject to Wisconsin's three per cent sales tax, the Department of Taxation held Tuesday.

The department announced adoption of a rule covering such establishments after fraternity and sorority interests on the University of Wisconsin campus protested an earlier interpretation that student-tenants would have to pay a tax on their meals.

Prange's Festival of Flowers last May won the store the second prize nationally for advertising excellence in 1961 at the Annual Retail Advertising Conference in Chicago last weekend. The prize, a gold-plated rule, was presented to Robert Gmoier, advertising manager of the H. C. Prange Co., at the conference. For the Festival of Flowers promotion the store floor of the store was transformed into a garden filled with thousands of live flowers for one week. The display included blooming hydrangeas, lilies, azaleas, rhododendrons and many others. A floral theme was carried in design and color in the store's advertising.

Dear Glenn:

Many thanks to the Appleton Post-Crescent and to you for the excellent work in promoting our twelve page ad in color which promoted, as you know, our Festival of Flowers. This was not only a traffic-producing ad, but also was most favorable prestige-wise. We have heard many fine comments on this ad locally, and already have received a few complimentary letters from other stores around the country.

We feel that your artists, your engravers, pressmen and printers did a most exceptional job, and we would like them to know how much we appreciate their efforts. In our opinion, this was as fine an ad as could possibly be produced by anyone.

Again, many thanks to all of you at the Post-Crescent for your splendid co-operation.

Dowler and Kramer
Also Ranked in NFL Statistics

NEW YORK (AP)—For a team noted mainly for an "awesome ground attack, the Green Bay Packers had some fine receivers in the passing department enroute to the National Football League championship last season.

Official league statistics disclosed that Max McGee was 11th among the NFL's top pass receivers. Boyd Dowler tied for 25th and Ron Kramer was deadlocked for 29th.

Jim Phillips of the Los Angeles Rams led the league with 78 receptions good for 1,092 yards and five touchdowns. Phillips' best game was 13 grabs in the Rams' 24-17 defeat by Green Bay
Dec. 17.

Caught 51

McGee caught 51 passes for 883 yards, an average of 17.3 per reception, and seven touchdowns as quarterback Bart Starr's favorite target in the Packers' aerial game.

Dowler caught 36 passes for 633 yards and three touchdowns despite missing time by his call to active duty by the Army, while Kramer hauled in 35 tosses for 559 yards and four touchdowns.

Green Bay fullback Jim Taylor took 15 passes for 145 yards and

Angel's Lee Thomas Fractures Bone in His Right Foot

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)— Lee Thomas, probably the most valuable player the Los Angeles Angels own, has a fractured bone in his right foot.

Manager Bill Rigney said Tuesday that Thomas will be idle until a special arch is made for him.

Thomas' activity will be limited for a time and if he finds he has any difficulty moving about or experiences any pain he will have to undergo an operation.

Last year Thomas was runner-up to Beaton's Don Schwall for rookie-of-the-year honors.

Fox Valley Lutheran's Verlyn Dobberstein (12) scraps with two Lakeside playscoring title with a 21 point outburst Tuesday, his season average. This gave him the title over the Foxes' Verlyn Dobberstein, who clinaxed his junior year with a 20 point performance.

The Foxes left little doubt about the outcome after the intermission. With John Koschmann leading the way, they quickly opened up a 12 point, 35-23, spread and the issue was never in doubt. By the opening of the fourth period, the Foxes had a 43-30 lead.

Twenty Point Lead
Dave Schweppe's two quick baskets opened the final eight minutes of Foxes basketball. Koschmann's ringer from the corner in-(55-35), the biggest margin at any point in the game. Substitutes dotted the floor for the final minutes.

Coach Dave Umrus' Fox Valley Lutheran javee squad closed out its season here Tuesday night with a 48-27 victory over Lakeside Lutheran of Fort Atkinson. It was the junior Foxes' 16th victory of the season against only three losses.

Wayne Koenig led the scoring with 16 points on eight field goals.
Bob Krueger was next in line for the Foxes with 9 points.

Lakeside led through most of the opening period. Senior Dennis Sueilow, starting his first game this year, banged home two free throws to erase an early 3-2 lead.
A basket by Buske and a three point combination by Bob Roth gave Lakeside an 11-9 lead with 2:58 remaining in the opening period. Dobberstein and Koschmann connected for Foxes' baskets before the quarter and FVL had a 13-11 lead at that point.

Lakeside still didn't fold. Buske made the next six points for Fort Atkinson and the visitors had regained an 18-17 margin midway through the second quarter. The Foxes, led by Koschmann, made six of the next eight points and led at halftime, 25-19.

The Foxes made 23 of 37 shots.

The game, the second part of a

Braves Sign Carl Willey, Don Nottebart

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves counted only two players outside the fold today with the signing of right-handed pitchers Carl Willey and Don Nottebart.

Rookie outfielder Len Gabrielson, a young slugger signed for a hefty bonus a couple of years ago, and veteran relief pitchers Don McMahon were the lone unsigned members of a 38-player roster.

Gabrielson, however, visited the Braves' training camp Tuesday.
Neither he nor McMahon will be considered a holdout until the official start of training Thursday.

Willey, a hard-luck pitcher the last three seasons, had a 6-12 record in 1961. His earned run average, however, was a creditable 3.23. Nottebart had a 6-7 record and showed promise of becoming a top-flight long relief man.

Dan Gurney to Drive First Turbine-Powered Car at Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Dan Gurney of Costa Mesa, Calif., veteran road racer, was nominated today to drive the first turbine-powered car ever entered in the Indianapolis 500-mile race.

The John Zink trackburner, being built in Tulsa, Okla., by Carl Oliver and Dennis Moore, will be powered by a 335-pound turbine engine burning kerosene. Mounted behind the driver, it is expected to develop 375 horsepower in a car weighing only 1,400 pounds.
Gurney won the Daytona Beach sports car race Feb. 3 at a U.S. record speed of 104.1 miles an hour for the class. He has never raced at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

Tall Regis Front Line Will be Test For Xavier Quintet

Eau Claire Will Average 6-5
Under Basket in Tourney Game

BY RALPH MUELLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

H-E-I-G-H-T—all in capital letters—spells what is perhaps the biggest shortcoming of the state tournament-bound Xavier High School basketball team.

From the beginning of the season, it was questionable as to just how far Coach Gene "Torchy" Clark's cagers would get with a starting lineup that averages right around 6-foot even. Much of the rebound load depended on Chuck Loeck (6-2), Joel Ebben (6-1), and a spring-legged sophomore, Bob "Rocky" Bleier (5-10).

The question as to whether the Hawks, with speed and aggressiveness as their chief weapons, can overcome this lack of height was partially answered when the Appleton school beat out a bigger Green Bay Premonite squad for the Fox Valley Catholic Conference title.

The supreme test, however, will come on the floor of the Milwaukee Arena in the first game of the 33rd annual state Catholic high school basketball tournament at 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Big Front Line
The Hawks will meet Eau Claire Regis, a team that boasts of a front wall that averages 6-5.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The Los Angeles Dodgers have made Dyke Snider their team captain for 1962.

"We haven't had a captain since Pee Wee Reese retired after the 1958 season," said Manager Walt Alston, in announcing the appointment Tuesday.

"I think Snider will be an inspiration to our young players
I rather liked the idea of making him captain, and he liked it too."

2 Mid-Eastern Conference Teams Face CWC Squads at Shawano

It'll be two Mid-Eastern Conference teams and a pair of Central Wisconsin Conference representatives battling for the subregional crown at Shawano Thursday and Friday.

The winner will continue in tournament play by meeting the Oconto sub-regional winner in the Shawano High School Gym Saturday night for a berth in the Antigo sectional meet March 9-10.

At 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Clintonville meets Bonduel. Shawano tangles with Wittenberg at 9.
The strength of the tournament is in the Shawano-Wittenberg bracket if previous games this season can be used as a guide.
Both teams hold two victories over their fellow conference rivals. Shawano turned back Clintonville, 70-54, and 64-56. Wittenberg whipped Bonduel, 49-47 and 63-58.

The For Fourth
Both M-E schools deadlocked for fourth place in the final standings with 6-8 records. Shawano managed to compile a 9-9 mark against all opponents while the Truckers accumulated an 8-10 overall slate.

The Indians are led by one of the top prep scorers in the state, Tom Wagner.
Clintonville features the biggest overall height in the tournament in George Greeley (6-6) and Den-

Paul Olson, a 6-4 center handles the rebound chores while Duan Nelson, Dan Yaeger, and Bohman, a 5-7 senior guard, Jack Korb and sophomore Bill Melzer.

Wagner won the M-E scoring title and averaged 20 points per game in 18 contests. Clintonville's leading point producer was Nelson, who average 15.

Wittenberg, coached by John McGlynn, finished sixth in the Central Wisconsin loop sporting 5-9 slate. Its overall record was with an average of nearly 20 a game.

Terrors Open Against Kaukauna, Papermakers to Meet Reedsville, Winners Clash Friday Night

JOHN L. FAUSTIAN
Post-Crescent Sports Editor

Basketball tournament fever, that highly-agreeable athletic disease that has already infected a number of Fox Cities area high schools this season, is due to spread to Kimberly Thursday night.

Kaukauna and Appleton quintets open Kimberly High School's first sub-regional meet in three years with a 7 p. m. encounter. Kimberly and Reedsville, the teams with the glos-siest regular-season records, clash in the 8:30 windup.

The Papermakers, on the strength of their 15-3 record and home-court advantage, rate the nod as sub-regional favorites. But this tourney has produced more than its share of surprises in the last seven years, and it's possible some other quintet will be dispatched to Manitowish Saturday night to battle for the regional crown.

The Kimberly sub-regional kingpin will be decided Friday night when opening-round winners are matched.

Second Best Record
Reedsville's Pat Hether's Little
Nine Conference co-champions enter the tourney with the second best record, 14-3. AHS and Kaukauna have compiled 6-12 and 0-18 marks, respectively.

Kimberly, which finished a strong third in the Mid-Eastern Conference (one game out) will be making its tourney debut under the coaching of Dave Genzmer.
The Papermakers, then led by Gil Franko, won two of the last three sub-regional meets.

Kaukauna is still coached by Jerry Hopfensperger, who led the school to a sub-regional title two years ago.

Appleton, guided in tournament play for the ninth time by Dick Emanuel, last won a sub-regional title in 1958.

Reedsville, coached by Horton ville native Ron Akin, will be making its second regional tourney appearance and will be competing in this arena for the first time. Last year, the Panthers played at Manitowish. Though Reedsville is still a district-sized school (with a 238 enrollment) it has voluntarily jumped to the regional, rather than district, level.

Holds 4-2 Edge
Last year, AHS handed Kaukauna a 44-24 tourney loss after the Ghosts had jumped to a 9-3 lead. Overall, the Terrors own a 4-2 tournament edge over Kauplayer, Bobby Joe Case of Sedalia, Mo.

Case, an infielder in the Chi-dead on arrival at a Holden Clincar in which Case was riding, including Case's wife, were injured.

Case, who played second base and shortstop, was with Mobile-in the Southern Association in 1961, and he batted .265.

Kiel is led by guard Brian Hahn and Dick Platz.
Thursday night's winners will clash in the nightcap Friday for the right to meet the winner of the Shelbyville sub-regional Saturday night at North High School.
The Chilton tourney's consolation game will also play at Shelby-

Aid to Nigeria Commits U. S. to Democratic Pattern of Growth

In December, 1961, the United Nations experts from an obstacle to a vehicle for economic growth. Nigeria's first year of independence from Britain, experts agree, provided evidence of both political stability and economic growth potential. Nigeria remains in the Commonwealth of Nations and Britain continues as the chief foreign investor in Nigeria's development. Economically — through mobilization of its own resources and with the help of foreign government and private investment —

States pledged $225 million to aid and the Ford Foundation Nigeria is carrying out its first 8-year development plan, a $2.8 billion effort to expand, diversify and modernize the economy of two other proposed dams, is expected to meet the new nation's power requirements for the next 30 years. The scheme is expected to raise agricultural output, unloading its largely agricultural river transportation and economy was designed with the covert the Niger River system

Program Times Set for Fourth Show of Series

"Nigeria—Democracy in a New Climate" will be the fourth program in the "Great Decisions" series sponsored by Lawrence College and the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley and Green Bay. It will be televised on WBAV TV at 10:30 a.m. Sunday. Radio versions of the program will be from 5 to 5:30 p.m. today on Lawrence College's radio station WLSM from 8 to 9:30 p.m. today on WTMJ and from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. Thursday on WHA FM.

The discussion group will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at Worcester Art Center Lawrence College.

Nigeria progressed during 1961. Old factories are expanding and new ones are being established.

By the end of this year Nigeria expects to be able to supply half its own cement needs and a growing share of its needs in other construction materials. As a result, imports can be cut and — with the simultaneous expansion of exports — Nigeria can reduce an unfavorable trade balance which amounted to $140 million last year.

First Oil Refinery
Crude oil production is to be doubled this year and the nation's first oil refinery may be started within the year.

Agriculture, Nigeria's major export industry, is also expanding. Cocoa production is expected to climb 10 per cent this year and peanuts nearly 7 per cent.

The projected dam complex is expected to add $33.6 million in agricultural productivity soon after the first stage of an irrigation network is completed.

The 14-gene ator power output of the first dam will be enough experts believe to finance the cost of the other two dams through the sale of cheap electricity.

Committed to Western Concepts Material measures of Nigeria's progress were, however, only part of the evidence weighed by Washington policy-makers as they formulated their aid offer.

Although Nigeria is among the poorest of the world's developing nations (the average farmer earns about $80 a year), and the population suffers from disease, illiteracy, geographical disunity and the problems of cultural diversity, it has developed political institutions based on government by consent.

Moderate Foreign Policy
In foreign policy Nigeria pursues a moderate and independent course. It is pro-U.N., friendly to the Commonwealth, opposed to the entry of the cold war into African politics and opposed to diplomatic extremism.

"Today is no longer an era for anticolonial harangues," Nigeria's Governor General Nnamdi Azikiwe has said. "The time has come for consolidation and positive action."

Unprecedented Offer
It is this commitment which, as much as anything else, observers believe, convinced Washington to make its offer of support to Nigeria's long-term growth.

Nigeria's success, under policies of internal freedom and external moderation, will make it more than a showcase for development economics. Nigeria can become the most important single demonstration to Africa and the whole underdeveloped world, that the best path to modernization is the one which preserves individual freedom and fosters cooperation in the community material in

Mail Ban on Red Propaganda Desirable, Cunningham Says

WASHINGTON—A congressional ban on Communist propaganda in the U. S. mails would be a help, not a hindrance, to the free flow of ideas. That's the belief of Rep. Glenn Cunningham, the soft-spoken, bespectacled Nebraska Republican who wrote the propaganda ban passed by the House of Representatives last month. The Kennedy Administration opposes Cunningham's plan, which is now awaiting action in the Senate.

Blow to Freedom
The Post Office Department, the American Civil Liberties union and a number of editorialists have attacked the measure as a blow to freedom of information. They fear U. S. restrictions on mail from Communist countries might lead to a further curtailment of the delivery of our mail behind the Iron Curtain.

Rep. Cunningham disagrees. He says Communists are already violating international mail treaties by refusing to allow American newspapers, magazines, and books to circulate freely in their territories. He says we should slap a similar ban on the tons of printed matter for funneled to battle the blaze of the one which preserves individual freedom and fosters cooperation in the community material in

Council Takes No Stand on Teen Beer Law

Meeting at Iola Suggests Teachers Study Guidance

TOLA — Guidance directors took a quick look at teenage beer drinking habits here Monday at the tag end of a Waupaca County Community Council meeting, which fostered recommendations for a fresh approach to guidance problems.

Cooperation between school guidance directors and welfare law enforcement agencies was described as good but there is a need for better communication between parties, five speakers agreed.

It was recommended that all teachers take several courses in guidance work. This, it was felt, would help break down the barrier of a student becoming labeled a "problem child" or "trouble maker." Learning sympathetic understanding of problems should be extended to all classroom teachers, it was said.

A question of whether or not the council should take a stand on the teen-age beer law met with varying opinions and no vote was taken.

Members of the panel were Melvin Romensko, Iola; Jerry Farrell and Lester Hanson, Clintonville; Roman Danielson, Waupaca; and George Lehto, Manawa.

Moderator was Mrs. Ruth Kelly, Waupaca parole and probation agent.

The council will meet again in May at Manawa.

Trio Arrested After Theft Near Silent Witness

Three young hubcap thieves who were caught after they stole hubcaps from a car with someone in it were fined $50 each by Judge Gustavo J. Keller Tuesday for disorderly conduct.

The youths, Timothy Murphy, 17, 317 E. North St., Appleton; Ronald Kneice, 18, 1916 S. Madison St., Appleton, and David Gauthier, 19, route 2, Thielen, pleaded guilty to the charge.

A deputy at Pleasant View dance hall, Bear Creek, told sheriff's investigators that at about midnight Feb. 23 three youths had broken the aerial of a car and taken the hubcaps.

A youth who was not feeling well was lying down in the car. He said he heard one of the trio say "If he moves I'll hit him over the head" and he played possum until the youths had gone. He then followed their car and obtained the license number. The trio was arrested later.

Critics Yakking About Swell New Webster's Dictionary

'Language That Is Used,' Editors Assert; 'Scandal,' Opponents Cry

NEW YORK (AP) — That big, remodeled word book, "Webster's Third New International Dictionary of the English Language," is stirring up a storm of words.

"A scandal," say some critics. "Debased verbal currency."

"Accurate," say the book's editors. "The language that is used."

In any case, ever since the new, 2,002-page linguistic tome came out last fall, it has provided a steady tumult of reaction, pro and con.

What seems to have produced the main outcry is that the dictionary doesn't classify as slang or colloquial usage a lot of terms that formerly were put in that category.

Not Downgraded

For instance, on the lam, stick up, con, softsoap, corny. All these were downgraded in the old dictionary, not in the new.

Many terms not included at all in the old dictionary — such as holrod, goon, pricewise, jalopy, yeah, gobbledygook, hipster — are elevated to fully respectable English in the new. So is the heat set's disparaging term, "square," which is defined as:

"A person who is an outsider or adversary because of the conventionality, conservatism or respectability of his taste, behavior or way of life; one who is not in the know; unsophisticated."

And this characterization just about sums up the publisher's view of the critics. Gordon J. Gallan, president of G. & C. Merriam Co., which has put out Webster's dictionaries for more than a century, says of the complaints:

'A Changed Language'

"Superficial comments of a few journalists who are reluctant to admit that our language has changed rapidly in the last few decades."

The objections have come heatedly — from a variety of sources, however, ranging from writers and reference book specialists to teachers and a law journal.

"Webster III has thrust upon us a dismaying assortment of the questionable, the perverse, the unworthy and the downright outrageous," says author Wilson Follett, writing in last month's Atlantic Monthly.

Against Traditions

"It has gone over bodily to the school that construes traditions as enslaving, the rudimentary principles of syntax as crippling, and taste as irrelevant."

Among other things, he protests the dictionary's approval of the usage of various words in ways widely considered improper before — such as using "like" for "as if" and "due to" for "because of."

The dictionary, the first completely revised, unabridged Webster's in a quarter century, includes 450,000 entries. Among them, the editors say, are 100,000 new words or new meanings.

The New York Times, in an indignant bit of editorial irony, offered this comment:

'Swell and Esteemed'

"A passel of double-domes at the G. and C. Merriam Co. joint in Springfield, Mass., have been confabbing and yakking for 27 years... and have now finalized... a new edition of that swell and esteemed book."

All the foregoing words were listed in the new dictionary without being classified as slang and with no suggestion that they were anything but standard, the Times noted.

It said that Webster's for generations had been a "peerless authority" on sound usage, but that yardstick to measure by," he said.

As the critics see it, the old edition did a fuller job in noting questionable items in contemporary usage. For instance, the new edition drops altogether the "colloquial" label, but still lists some words as slang.

For example: cornball, heist. These didn't even make the previous edition.

Last month's issue of the American Bar Association Journal also criticized the new edition, saying a serious blow has recently been fallen the cause of good English. The editorial adds:

Dr. Philip B. Cove, editor-in-chief of the new dictionary, said the words ridiculed by the Times appear in "serious writing today."

He said the dictionary's aim was to "report the language" as it is, not to prescribe what belongs in it.

Similarly, in the preface to the new edition, he writes:

"Accuracy in addition to requiring freedom from error and conformity to trust requires a dictionary to state meanings in which words are in fact used; not to give editorial opinion on what their meanings should be."

It is just this policy that aroused many of the objections.

Should Prescribe

"The great mass of dictionary users want and need a dictionary to prescribe for them," says B. Hunter Smeaton, of Los Angeles State College, writing in the Library Journal, which is widely circulated among libraries.

He said a dictionary doesn't need to prescribe in "an authoritarian sense" so as to ban perpetual changes in language, but should point up the current "most widely acceptable" usages among teachers and editors.

"It is no snobbery to ask a

Legitimized Vulgarisms

Laurance Hart, of Metuchen, N.J., a white-haired, 75-year-old man who publishes the "Hart Chart," a periodical comparative study of various dictionaries and encyclopedias, said of the new

"They have legitimized a lot of vulgarisms and colloquialisms. Up to now, Webster's was looked to as 'a judge,' he said, adding: "In court it could be said that Webster's said so and so and we knew it was so. Now they have abdicated their great responsibilities and opened the floodgates."

'Keep Second Edition'

In his "Hart Chart" report, which goes to many publishers, he advises his subscribers to hold on to the old second edition. Of the new one, he says:

"This edition should appeal to people who read comics and tabloids, enjoy TV, etc. — but not to those who are ambitious, careful and studious."

Protests also have been made to the first inclusion of some four-letter vulgar words. Other common obscenities, however, still have found a place in the language.

There also have been objections to the new edition's omission of the biographical and gazetteer sections from the back of the book.

The new dictionary also omits proper names, such as Jesus. Cove said the biographical and gazetteer information now was available from so many other sources that it seemed unnecessary to include it in the new edition.

Drawn From Usage

In the preface of the new dictionary, Cove says that definitions and status of words were drawn mainly from examples of usage collected in the last 25 years, but that "material of unsubstantial or evanescent quality" was discarded and found added only if they had terms a place in the language.

The new dictionary, he said, odd readers and editors were result of the findings, the fourth starting out all over again to its edition will be coming up soon.

ten, read and, record the way 25 years hence, with doubtless understanding of the vocabulary of today's society."

Meanwhile, the company's 100 people speak, write and use words in today's setting — and as a our native tongue.

Pick Sterling Pattern for Lifetime Use

Will you love your sterling in December as you did in May? That's a basic question to ask before selecting your flatware pattern. Because sterling silver is a life-long treasure, actually enhanced by the patina of age, it should be bought for your table of tomorrow as well as your current home. And remember, too, that your Heirloom Sterling will probably be prized by your great-grandchildren a century from now!

So choose a pattern that's more than passing fashion. Elegant, traditional design is always a safe bet, since it has passed the "taste test" of so many years and is certain to blend with a wide heritance of furniture styles. And a pattern with graceful adornment also, somehow, spells Sterling! Another wise choice is the "plain" pattern that just can't go out of style because of its beautiful simplicity. Look for the best sterling value for your money, too—in workmanship and weight. Insist on functional (as well as handsome) design, and on proper balance, fine details, and careful finish. Finally, beyond all other reasons, pick the sterling pattern that really appeals to you most! Then you'll be most likely to treat it to the active everyday use it needs for greatest beauty.

Colorado Setting for Nuptial Rite

Miss Margaret Oats, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Oats, Fallon, Nev., and Robert H. Davis,

Each year a woman of Latin America studies in the U.S. under an AAUW fellowship. A memorial fellowship, given biennially, brings a British woman to the U.S. to study. A new program of AAUW fellowships for women teachers of Africa has been announced for 1962-63. They will be offered to teachers of Liberia, Nigeria, Ghana, Ethiopia and Sudan. A program of graduate study through which mature college women may qualify themselves for teaching, research or administration in higher education was announced in December. Financed by a grant from the Rockefeller Brothers Fund, the first group will enroll in September.

Mrs. R. H. Davis

Nebraska, and James Verkuilen, Denver, Colo., served as the couple's attendants. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. The bride was graduated from the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo. Her husband attended Oshkosh State College, Oshkosh, Wis. After a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe, Nev., the couple will reside in Denver.

Pointers for Clean Clothes

A bride needs to learn all that she can as quickly as possible about doing her household laundry. She should keep these pointers in mind —
Never use soap with hard water; this combination makes the clothes grayer with each wash. Use a water softener and a synthetic detergent with your hard water.
The hotter the water, the cleaner the clothes.
Use only a small amount of bleach. A little whitens just as much as a whole lot and does not weaken the fabric.
Always remove spots before washing; laundering sometimes sets a spot. If a spot isn't removed in the washing, do not iron over it; that is sure to set it.
Before starching, read instructions, and when you find a starch that suits you stick to it.
When there are a lot of clothes to be starched, starch them in the washing machine as it distributes the starch evenly.
See that the clothes line is perfectly clean before hanging clothes out.

Correction

In the story of the Medical Auxiliary Benefit Dance in Tuesday's Post-Crescent, Dr. Edward R. Pflum was identified as Dental Society president. This post is held by Dr. A. W. Lehman. Mrs. Pflum is president of the Dental Auxiliary. The Post-Crescent was misinformed.

S. T. Rickard, Miss Zitelman Engaged to Wed

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Zitelman, Forest Heights, Munising, Mich., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Judith Kay, to Scott Thurston Rickard. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kirk, Corvallis, Ore. She is a candidate for a master's degree in clinical psychology at Bradley University, Peoria, Ill. Her fiancé was graduated from Oregon State University where he was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is a candidate for a master's degree at Indiana University. A June wedding is planned.

Child's Eagerness Causes Stammering

BY ANGELO PATRI

Here is a problem that lately comes a bit more regularly than usual. It has to do with some kind of speech defect and that to me is one of the most serious handicaps a child can have. For this reason the child with a speech defect should be taken to a speech specialist for examination to determine the cause of the defect and what can be done to help him.

Little children are likely to stammer. They are so eager to tell all they have in mind and they fear we will not hear them through. In their eagerness to say a lot and say it very fast they flood their speech area with energy and the stammering starts. This may happen to children just learning to talk and to those much older who could talk easily enough if there were not some emotional pressure driving them to say their say and be done with it.

What can the listener do under these circumstances? Remember that this is an overeager child trying to do more than at the time he is able to do. We can remove his dread of losing his audience by assuming an attitude of leisure. That attitude must say plainly, we are in no hurry. We are interested in what the child wants to tell us. We will hear him through. We make him feel that he has all the time in the world to say his say. Thus we try to remove from him the pressure of our adult personalities which, to a child who has a speech defect, takes on huge proportions.

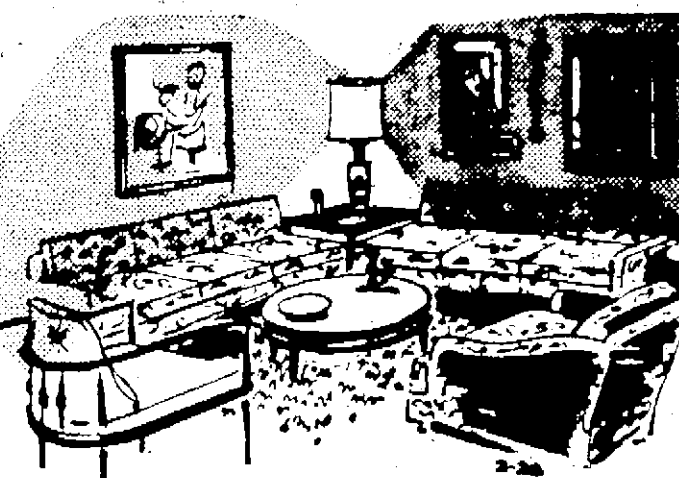

When a child starts to stammer be very calm, busy yourself with some trifle, look away from him but let him feel that you are listening to him. The idea is to loosen the tension in the child's body. We are easy in manner. We speak gently, slowly. We avoid criticism, scolding, urging, anything that might breed self-consciousness and fear. We praise and support and encourage the child in his efforts to talk.

When this stammering has become a habit more serious measures must be taken. The mind that is anxious must be set to a new rhythm in which emotional energy is under control. Corbie always wanted to be the first to answer the teacher's question. He always had the right answer but the fear that he might not be asked to answer made him stammer. When put to bookbinding, where words were few and routine slow, Corbie's stammering was cured. John Garfield stammered when he talked to grown-ups. The work in the dramatic class cured him. Here he could put on the cloak of a king and play at being a ruler instead of the rejected one.

Speech difficulty is a serious handicap to a child and we should do our utmost to cure it.

Designing Woman

BY ELIZABETH HILLYER

Identical Sofa Arrangement

When identical sofas are arranged in a corner, must chairs with them be pairs? How about pictures — should the same number in the same sizes hang over both sofas? These questions from Mrs. L.M.W. find the answer most interior designers prefer in the sketched setting, where only the sofas are duplicates.

Double doses of everything divide such a grouping down the center. Mrs. W., an effect that is avoided both by variety and unequal balance. Note that this arrangement makes one side lighter than the other with the chair open arm-style and a single picture, and that the picture hangs toward the corner end of the sofa. It also shows how large pictures add great style by stretching the height of the total composition upward. Imagine how smaller pictures would look and you'll also see that the upward-reaching big pictures help to keep the sofas from looking so bulky. The bulk of the grouping is reduced by wide use of a single color, for the walls, sofa background and carpet.

Miss J.C.: "What color scheme do you suggest for a living room that has pink walls? I wouldn't have chosen the pink, but the painting was done before we signed the lease. We have no furnishings yet as this will be our first home. Every color combination I think of with pink would be better in a bedroom than in a living room."

Decide on colors you really want in your living room and leave the pink walls as they are only if they fit into the scheme. New furnishings involve enjoyment of your home too much for too long a time, and too large an investment, to be ruled by a color you don't particularly like. Pink walls aren't easy to scheme into a living room successfully in any case, and written suggestions give a truly risk disappointing results because the exact shade of pink isn't known, and shades of other colors can't be indicated entirely accurately in words. Some combinations of certain pinks with certain contrasting colors create living room atmosphere, and other combinations of different shades of the same colors do not.

Mrs. S.G.H.: "Since we moved, the only place to hang a long, narrow mirror we have seems to be above a dresser cabinet in the entrance hall. The mirror is only 15 inches wide and the cabinet is 36 inches wide. Should small pictures be hung on both sides of the mirror, or do you have other suggestions?"

Small pictures or other decorative objects might be grouped effectively at both sides of the mirror, or the mirror might line center.

SEAMS TO ME Questions On Sewing

By Patricia Scott

The performance of your sewing machine depends on the care you give it. If the machine is used regularly, be sure to clean it every so often, removing the lint and fluff accumulated around the different parts.

Q. Some time ago you mentioned a flexible presser foot. What is it and where can I get one? Mrs. J.G.

A. A flexible presser foot (or hinged presser foot as it is also called) comes with most new sewing machines. Because of its flexibility, it makes it possible for you to sew over pins. If you have an older model machine, you can buy a presser foot at any store handling parts for your particular model.

Q. I can't for the life of me make tailor's tacks. Can you explain it to me? Thank you, Miss S.G.T.

A. Thread your needle with a long double strand of thread and do not make a knot. Take a small stitch through the printed line or perforation of the pattern and the fabric. Leave the thread end one inch long and take another small stitch next to the first one. Draw the thread through forming a loop. Continue to the next marking doing the same thing. In making a series of tacks before clipping, be sure you leave enough thread hanging loosely between the tacks. Then, clip the threads as shown in the diagram. Gently remove the pattern. Separate the two layers of fabric carefully and cut the threads between them. This way you can mark both layers of fabric with only one tailor's tack.

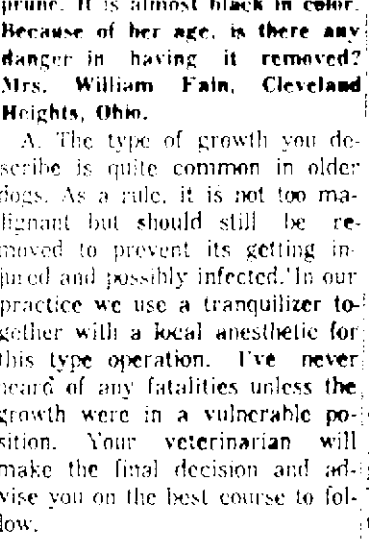

Q. You often see cotton fabric marked either "carded" or "combed." The ones marked "combed" are more expensive. Why is this, and what is the difference between the two? Mrs. D.R.C.

A. Each is a process of opening and cleaning the fibers, separating the fibers from each other. Briefly, combed cotton has been carded first and then combed in order to remove all remaining impurities. The combed fabric is cleaner and is used for fine fabrics. Because of this double process, it must go through combed cotton is a bit more expensive. Carded cotton does not go through the combing process. This leaves it with more impurities, and though it's still a good piece of fabric, it is not as fine pet care to readers submitting the best questions. Q. My 12-year-old spayed female Boxer has a growth on her side which resembles a small prune. It is almost black in color. Because of her age, is there any danger in having it removed? Mrs. William Fain, Cleveland Heights, Ohio.

A. The type of growth you describe is quite common in older dogs. As a rule, it is not too malignant but should still be removed to prevent its getting injured and possibly infected. In our practice we use a tranquilizer to give the dog a local anesthetic for this type operation. I've never heard of any fatalities unless the growth were in a vulnerable position. Your veterinarian will make the final decision and advise you on the best course to follow.

Paris Designers Emphasize Femininity for Spring 1962

BY GABRIELLE SMITH

PARIS (AP)—Women looked more like their feminine selves at the spring and summer Paris fashion showings.

Each designer seemed to feel a need to feminize his models, but each did it differently. This spring, whether you are tall or short, slim or not, you can wear what suits you like best and stay in style.

The only rule to follow is a short skirt, just below the knee. Yves Saint-Laurent provided the fashion suspense this season. He opened his own house following two seasons underground after leaving Dior, where he had been chief designer. His look reached from Far West to Far East, giving girls cowboy hats and scarves for day, and Balinese cocktail outfits topped by turbans for evening. He even introduced the harem with his short at-home trousers.

Waists came back with wide leather belts, sometimes tight around the middle, sometimes

Fuller Skirts Shows Small high bosoms reappeared for day in most collections, as at Balmain and Desses. Designers who kept a flat line tended to make up for it at night with low décolletage.

Skirts were made to walk in. Lanvin Castillo decreed against the "one-legged look" women had with straight narrow skirts. Ricci and Heim made skirts bell out in circles, and Saint-Laurent and Dior gave two versions of a straight-looking, easy skirt.

Details added femininity to designers' lines. Dior starred ruffles in organza and gilt for cocktail and evening. Cardin used spiraling, ridged tucks to mark midriffs, and applique flowers on strict suits. Lanvin Castillo outdid the jungle with his leopard spotted raincoats, and Saint-Laurent gave women huge red costume jewelry hearts.

Bright Clear Colors Alone in the turmoil stood Coco Chanel, who deftly carried on variations on her own themes, adding extra quilting, diaphanous chiffon dresses and blouses that looked like Indian striped scarves.

Colors went from sun yellow to palest apricot. They were bright and clear in red and fuchsia, deep sky blue. Some models went strict with straight black and white, navy and brown.

Jacques Heim's Black and white tweed afternoon dress features a waistcoat, collar and tie in white organdie. A white breton by Jacques-Heim-Svend completes the outfit for spring 1962.

Parents Tell Engagement Of Daughter

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kiefer, 1200 E. Wisconsin Ave., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Joyce Ann, to Richard E. West, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter West, 308 N. Rankin St.

The couple is employed at the Appleton Coated Paper Co. The wedding date is set for June 30.

sary changes to assure smooth fit. Pin skirt to lining at waistline and placket opening, clipping lining as necessary at the bottom of placket. Baste the skirts together one-half inch from edge and finish as pattern indicates. Hems of each skirt should be completed separately, finishing the lining one-half to one inch shorter than the wool skirt.

Here a garment where the sheer wool and lining have been treated as one piece by cutting the lining one-fourth inch shorter than the folded edge of the hem. Do not try to turn up the lining in the hem. Catch the hem edge through the lining only to finish the hem.

Better than aspirin or aspirin with buffering for TENSE, NERVOUS HEADACHE

Stronger Yet Safer. Gives Fast, Long-lasting And—More Complete Pain-Relief.

New York, N.Y.—Doctors report that tense, nervous headaches (often called "emotional headaches") are by far the most common kind.

When doctors, themselves, suffer headache pain—a survey reveals many doctors take the fast, pain-relieving ingredients in Anacin®. In fact, 3 out of 4 doctors recommend this same type relief to their patients.

It's easily understood why tension headaches call for the stronger yet safer medication in Anacin. Anacin gives fast, prolonged and—more complete relief than aspirin or any buffered aspirin. You see, mere aspirin or buffered aspirin contains only one pain reliever.

But Anacin is different... Anacin is like a doctor's prescription. That is, a combination of medically proven ingredients. It's this extra medication in Anacin that not only relieves pain fast, but also its nervous tension and depression. In minutes—Anacin releases painful pressure on nerves and the sufferer feels "just great" again.

Despite their strength and effectiveness—Anacin Tablets may be taken as directed as often as needed without upsetting or irritating the stomach. See if the extra medication in stronger yet safer Anacin doesn't work better for you. Change to Anacin today!

New Wools Sew Easy With Minimum of Care

The new "naked" wools will be the delight of seamstresses this season. Sheer, light wools that can be worn year around, even on hot July days, are easy to sew if the seamstress follows these tips.

Select a light china silk or fine cotton batiste for linings as these fabrics are made of natural fibers and correspond most closely to wool in drycleaning. Before cutting, press the china silk with a steam iron. Wash the cotton batiste in the short cycle of a washing machine to thoroughly shrink it before cutting.

Most wools can now be purchased pre shrunk and ready for the needle. If this has not been done, it is advisable to have a tailor or a dry cleaner shrink the wool before cutting.

Cut the sheer wool and lining exactly like the pattern, following the instructions given as to and any special markings required on the lining pieces.

Assemble each part that is to be lined with the right side of wool face down and corresponding section of lining marked right side up. Match edges and pin wool and lining together evenly. Baste first through the center of all large pieces (skirts, waists) then one-half inch from the edges around each lined piece. Baste through the center of each dart cutting, press the wool and lining until machine stitching of the dart is completed.

Prevent Distortion After basting is completed, stay stitch to prevent stretching and distortion of the fabric grain. Treat each lined section as one piece of material, sewing lining in the seams and completing garment by pattern directions.

For easier sewing, press as you go along. Use a moist heat, a steam iron or dry iron with a damp cloth, allowing to air dry before handling. Press with a lowering, lifting motion, not bearing down hard.

Flatten the darts along the center basting or fold line before pressing in the direction shown on the pattern guide. Use a strip of brown paper beneath fold to prevent marking. Press seams in the direction of the grain.

To line a sheer wool skirt separately, complete the skirt and lining separately to the point of joining waist and skirt. Fit each separately and make any neces-

Some Hands Are Fruity

Bridge players cannot live by bread alone. Today's hand is a bit fruity.

It's fair to identify the opening bidder. Mrs. O. L. Norrier, of Wilmington Del. Naming some of the other players might be considered an unfriendly act.

You don't have to approve West's overall of one no trump since it was about a queen weaker than the strength promised by such a bid. At that West's bid was not the worst of the brief auction.

North's jump to six spades was neither flesh fowl nor good red herring. There was no need to sacrifice since the opponents could make nothing. It was foolish to bid a slam since good defense would probably defeat it.

West looked at the backs of the cards to make sure that every body was playing with the same deck. Then he licked his chops and doubled.

Four Aces

It was a reasonable double since West had three aces against a slam contract. What's more, East had the fourth ace. Still, South made the slam.

West decided not to open the ace of his long suit for fear it might be ruffed. Instead, he opened the ace of hearts. If you have hearts, prepare to shed them now.

Mrs. Norrier ruffed the ace of hearts in dummy and returned the king of clubs. East put up the ace, and South ruffed. Declarer then cashed the king of hearts to discard dummy's losing diamond. It was then easy to draw trumps and claim the slam.

You can use this hand to test your friends. Give them the bid and the West hand, and ask them to make the opening lead. The card pushers will try to guess the right lead. The bridge players will open the ace of trumps and see the dummy before deciding which red ace will take the setting trick.

Daily Question

Dealer at your right bids one spade. You hold: S A 2 H A 8 D A Q 9 4 2 C 9 5 3 2. What do you say?

Answer: Pass. You are not strong enough to bid no trump, your diamond suit is too shabby for an overall, and your heart support is too poor for a takeout double. Pass and await developments.

Normal hair — thick, glossy, manageable — seems to become more and more of a rarity. Why so many heads all is open to question. Some experts blame too much curling and coloring and not enough care. Others think that the tensions and pressures of modern living are contributory factors.

In any case, normal hair is surely a treasure. And it must be jealousy guarded or its beauty will begin to fade all too prematurely. Care methods are in no

The basic steps to take revolve around cleanliness and stimulation—the cleansing of a weekly shampoo and the stimulus of a daily brushing. A mild shampoo is the type to use. In a brush what's wanted are stiff, even bristles.

PIN-WORMS A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting mental itch are often telltale signs of Pin Worms — tiny parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it.

Targeted in Worms they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. Tablets do — and here's how they do it.

First — a scientific coating carries the tablets in to the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medical approved ingredient goes right to work — kills Pin Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with danger — a badly contagious Pin Worms which infect entire families. Get real Jayne's P.W. Vermifuge — small easy to take tablets — special sizes for children and adults.

Retired Man Claims Wife Must Keep Him Company

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: What is wrong with my wife? We were married for 30 years and raised seven fine children. She stayed home like a good woman and took care of the kids. She also raised the cows and tended a big vegetable garden.

I used to go out a few nights a week with the boys. We played cards and had some drinks. I figured I owed myself this because I worked hard all day. There was no reason for both of us to be home with the kids. Now they are all married. My wife got herself a job and bought a car. She runs to help out at church, the Red Cross and other such places. Her clothes are modern and she looks good.

I'm retired now and don't go out much anymore. I want her to be here during the day with me. Please tell her to stay home where she belongs. She will listen to you.—By Myself

Dear My Yourself: Your wife sounds like a long-suffering, self-sacrificing woman who lived up to her responsibilities as a mother with very little help from you.

Now she's enjoying life and I applaud her independence. You, my friend, are reaping what you sowed.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: If you can solve this problem you're a genius.

My father-in-law is the world's worst driver. Pops is in his 70's and his vision is poor. He wears a hearing aid but keeps it turned off 90 percent of the time to "save the batteries." He's an inveterate talker and when he directs his remarks to someone in the back seat he turns around to look at them and forgets that he's driving a car.

I wouldn't care him for the world, but my heart is in my mouth whenever Pops is at the wheel. My husband always offers to drive when we have our two children along because he worries, too. But Pops says he enjoys driving and that ends it.

He has never had a serious accident but many creamed fenders, smashed grills, etc. Please, Ann, what's the answer?—Dorothy

Dear Dorothy: At some point you're going to have to decide which is more important—your family's lives or your father-in-law's feelings. When you make that decision, the problem will solve itself.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My next door neighbor has a little boy seven years old. He's one of the cutest little fellows I've ever seen. His mother is a timid soul who lets her husband make all the decisions in the family.

This child's father is demanding and opinionated. I've seen him almost pull the boy's arm out of its socket to get him into the house when one word would have done just as well. He slaps the child across the face and knocks him around constantly. Once he dislocated the boy's arm and they had to call the doctor.

The youngster stutters and holds his head down when he speaks to people. He is terrified of his father and of the world. His teacher is my niece and she told me that the boy never recites in school. He is afraid of his own voice.

Please tell me what I can do to help. My husband says I should keep quiet and not stick my neck out.—Can't Stand It

Dear Can't Stand It: Even the lowly turtle must stick his neck out if he wants to make progress. Sitting silently by and allowing injustice to go unchallenged is cowardly.

The best approach would be through the child's teacher. Ask her to make an appointment with the father. No man wants to ruin his son's life. If she can make him see what his brutality is doing, it would be a tremendous service.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for Ann Landers' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

CONCERN ABOUT DRESS

My husband received his degree in medicine last year and recently hung up his shingle as a general practitioner. He has lived here all his life but I am a newcomer. What is expected of a physician's wife in the way of dress? I am never too sure when I go to social gatherings. I seem to be a bit critical of one of the doctors' wives and wonder if she is going to go extreme. She is always in black. Generally she wears the same basic dress which she varies with jewelry and sometimes a trimming of some kind. Don't you think this is a little too somber as though she were afraid to blossom out into something more colorful and stylish?

Louise Davis Answers: "Clothes don't make the man. Or the woman. The only thing that is expected of you in the way of dress is a general conformity, according to current fashion and according to the customs in your area if they are in good taste. I suggest that you don't over dress to the point of being conspicuous or seemingly other extreme either by wearing slacks in public. The stressing of dress can be noticeably superfluous to the exclusion of everything else."

Man Gets Medal For Fulfilling Mother's Request

ROCHESTER, N. Y. — (AP)—

When James J. Mirras left his home in Niata, Greece, for America in 1930, his mother made one request: "My son," she said, "If you ever make any money, I want you to send enough to fill the holes in the church tower."

the church tower." She was referring to the tiny towers of the village church, empty because there was no money to buy clocks and bells.

Mirras, now a successful restaurant owner here, sent the money for new clocks and bells 30 years later. And he was recently awarded a medal from Greece's King Paul for public service.

First State Murder Trial Won Acquittal for Oshkosh

Eighteen years before Wisconsin became a state, Green Bay, then a part of Michigan Territory, was the scene of a most unusual trial. Oshkosh, chief of the Menominee tribe, was tried for murder.

The only defense presented by Oshkosh was that he had acted under Indian law and custom. Okewa, the Indian which Oshkosh had killed, had accidentally killed a member of the Menominee tribe. Chief Oshkosh said that by the law and custom of the Menominee tribe, Okewa had forfeited his life in consequence of this act.

He further stated that the Indian law provided that Okewa's life could be taken at any time and in any place without guilt. Chief Oshkosh told the court that he had killed Okewa in pursuance of this Indian law.

Judge Decided

The jury was unable to decide whether, under the facts, Chief Oshkosh was guilty of deliberate murder. They left the final determination to Judge Doty.

Judge Doty decided that Chief Oshkosh, along with his two accomplices, should be wholly acquitted and discharged, apparently feeling that it was justifiable homicide under Indian law. Thus ended Wisconsin's first murder trial.

Jingo Sees Need for Nationwide Theater

Suggests That Various Local Drama Groups Produce More Original Works

BY JINGO

With the community theater now well underway with three fine productions and another only a few days away, it might be a good time to take a look at the state of the professional theater.

Although there are professional companies throughout the nation — the Miller and Swan Theaters in Milwaukee for instance — the term professional theater, by reflex, means Broadway or perhaps a bit off-Broadway.

What this means, it appears, is that a single corps of producers, actors, script readers, audiences and critics form the substance of the literature of the American stage.

Despite this monolithic control, the American theater wondrously diverse. However, with the many facets of American life, the theater should be even more diverse and such playwrights whose production for minuscule, unweary, sick aspects of our life could be judged on a broader canvas.

It is unlikely an appropriately broad canvas can be achieved in the confines of today's professional theater. What is needed, it seems, is a theater as broad as the nation itself, refining the very best from every corner

Such a dream was set into the path toward reality some 30 years ago when Congress chartered to act as showcases for writing ANTA. However, a sea change took place along the way and a national theater is still pretty much a dream and the insular control of the White Way continues.

Now comes word out of Michigan that appears to give some hope the dream will finally gain bones and sinews. The moving force is an actor of many media George C. Scott, who has organized The Theater of Michigan a producing company

Lawrence Junior To Present Piano Recital at Harper

Phyllis Kercher, Park Ridge III junior piano student of Theodore Rehl will play the ninth of this year's Lawrence student recitals at 4 p.m. Sunday at Harper Hall.

Her program includes the eighth prelude and fugue from Bach's Well-Tempered Clavier; the E-flat Minor, a Mozart sonata; a three-part selection from Brahms' improvisations; on eight Hungarian peasant songs.

Mozart's "Sonata in A Minor K. 310," written in Paris in 1778 is a comparatively early work and one of the composer's best solo piano pieces. The three Intermezzi of Brahms, in related minor keys, have subtle past writing and colorful texture. Opus 118 No. 6 is considered perhaps one of his piano masterpieces.

Bartok's 1929 "Improvisations" is a dissonant work that marks a high point in the composer's treatment of folk material as he places these tunes in a connected musical cycle.

The complete program open to the public is as follows:

Circle Probes Young Dope Addicts Today

BY TV SCOOT

8-10 (Channel 17) — The Armstrong Circle Theater looks at teenage drug addiction (yes again) on tonight's "Assignment Teen Age Junkies." While there is not one new aspect in this rehashish it is well done. You'll meet all the familiar figures—teenagers themselves, the pushers, the assorted figures on the side of law and order. Martin Sheen plays the chief teen-ager here, with Pat McVey the most impolant reporter.

7-30-8-30 (Channel 2) — Checkmate has one of its better stories primarily because there is a different type of leading character. Angie Dickinson plays a girl released from prison after Morgan and The Sons of the serving a term for espionage. The Pioneers The Great Ballantine public feels strongly about her case, and Checkmate is hired by a do-gooder to protect her.

8-9 (Channel 11) — Hawaiian Eye's plot started from the gimmick and worked outwards. The which is alleged to be a combination of The Twist and the pousse a hamburger makes as it sizzles on the grill in a bowling alley. The character who dreamed this that as his starting point, Fuller up, according to the plot, is a built a story about a wealthy farm young singer who is played by Jerry Lanning, Roberta Sherblackmailer who barges in on the eve of the daughter's wedding.
8-9 (Channel 4-5) — With Perry Como vacationing, tonight The Kraft Music Hall goes West. Ro deo singer Rex Allen takes over in a show taped in Hollywood, and the tone of the show is set by mate has one of its better stories primarily because there is a different type of leading character. Angie Dickinson plays a girl released from prison after Morgan and The Sons of the serving a term for espionage. The Pioneers The Great Ballantine

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — The Bob Newhart Show has more of its comedy history lesson. Bob and Joe Flynn demonstrate how modern conveniences would have affected the early pioneers. And Bob shows Joe how the Indians could now be the owners of the American continent if they'd used certain modern social techniques. (Color)
9-10 (Channel 11) — Naked City starts out with an interesting character, but proceeds to get a bit too cute for its own good. Orson Bean plays Arnold Platt, who has been embezzling funds to take care of his sick mother. Now she is dead and once the funeral expenses are paid his criminal career should be over.
10-10-12 (Channel 4-5) — Gracie Fields and Stanley Holloway are guests on the Tonight Show. (Color)

Pick Right Schedule to File; Joint Return Has Lowest Rate

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Staff Writer

Here are three major points to think about in filing your 1961 income tax return: picking the right schedule; husband-wife problems; and exemptions.

1. There are three tax-rate schedules. Pick the one right for you. The tax is highest on No. 1, lower on No. 3, and lowest on No. 2.
2. Take all the exemptions you can. Each one means $600 subtracted from your income before what's left is taxable.

There are three schedules because there are special rules for different groups of taxpayers:

No. 1 — for single persons and married persons filing separately. No. 2 — for married people filing jointly and certain widows and widowers. No. 3 — for unmarried or legally separated taxpayers who qualify as "heads of household."

The schedules are on pages 9 and 10 of the instruction sheet sent taxpayers by the Internal Revenue Service. Page 9 is for those figuring their own tax. Page 10 is for those using the tax table.

Husband Wife

Husband-wife filing: Anyone filing gets a $600 exemption for himself if he's under 65, $1,200 if he's over 65, and another $600 if he's blind, under or over 65.

A single person, with or without dependents, must use schedule No. 1 with its highest tax rate except, as explained later, for certain widows and widowers and those who qualify as head of household.

You get the same exemptions for your wife as for yourself, but only under certain conditions that cover a wife with NO income, a wife with under $600 income and a wife with $600 or more income.

Save Money

Remember that in most cases a husband and wife save money by filing a joint return because, in filing jointly and in that way only, they can use schedule No. 2, which has the lowest tax rate.

In some cases they can save money by filing separately. If you have doubts, figure your tax both ways.

Here are the conditions involving a wife:

turn, either separately or jointly with you.

Separate Returns

If she files jointly, then each of you claims an exemption on that single return and you'd use schedule No. 2. If you and your wife file separately — each must then use schedule No. 1 — each will claim your own individual exemption on your separate returns. In a relatively few cases, and for special reasons, when husbands and wives both have income they'll save by filing separate returns.

Don't forget: when couples file separately they both must either take the standard 10 per cent deduction allowed all taxpayers, or both must itemize. If they itemize, they must use Form 1040.

Standard Deduction

While a single person or a couple filing jointly are allowed a standard deduction of 10 per cent of their income up to a limit of $1,000, a married person filing separately can take the standard deduction of 10 per cent of income only up to a limit of $500.

A husband and wife who filed separate returns in 1960 or 1959, or in both years, and now realize they could have saved money by filing a joint return then, can make up for the mistake by now filing a joint return for those years.

If you were married any time in 1961, even as late as Dec. 31, you were considered married for the whole year. If you were divorced as late as Dec. 31 you were considered divorced for all of 1961.

Divorced Wife

You can NOT claim an exemption for your divorced wife even though you paid more than half her support in 1961.

Here are the provisions on widows and widowers: If your wife (or husband) died in 1961 — and you did NOT remarry — you can claim a $600 exemption for her on your return and use schedule No. 2. If she had income, you must report it in your return.

You can also use schedule No. 2, with its lowest tax rate, if your wife (or husband) died in 1960 or 1959, provided you meet these requirements:

Not Remarried

You must have been entitled (in 1960 or 1959) to file a joint return with her in the year of her death, but didn't, and now want to in order to save money through the lower tax rate of schedule No. 2. You have NOT remarried; you have a child or stepchild who qualifies as your dependent; and you furnish over half the cost of your home which is the principal residence of your dependent child or stepchild.

You'd list your own income, exemptions and deductions but you could NOT — as you could have if your wife died in 1961 — claim a $600 exemption for her. You'd get, however, the benefit of using

Legally Separated

Head-of-household:

You can use schedule No. 3 — with its tax rate lower than No. 1 although higher than No. 2 — if you meet these requirements:

You were unmarried or legally separated at the end of 1961 or were married by the end of 1961 to someone who for part of the year was a nonresident alien; you must have furnished over half the cost of maintaining your home which was the main residence of yourself and your unmarried child, stepchild or grandchild, even though NOT a dependent of yours, or of any other relative you can claim as a dependent; or if you paid more than half the cost of maintaining a home for your mother or father, if either can qualify as your dependent.

You can NOT claim you maintained a home for a parent if you were paying for him or her in a home for the aged.

A wife with NO income doesn't have to file a return. But, if she files jointly with you, each of you claims your individual $600 exemption on that single return and use schedule No. 2.

No Exemption

If a wife with NO income doesn't file jointly with you, you can file your own return and claim a $600 exemption for her. But in this case you must use schedule No. 1, which has the highest tax rate.

If a wife had taxable income, but it was under $600, she doesn't have to file a return. But, if she had any taxable income, even though under $600, and doesn't file a return, you can't claim an exemption for her and you must use schedule No. 1.

If she had income, under or over $600, and files jointly with you, then each of you reports your individual income and claims an exemption on that single return. In this case, you'll use schedule No. 2.

If your wife had $600 or more income, she, like anyone else with that much income, must file a re-

New Proposals Offered by Pierce Auto

Teamsters Local To Consider Move At Special Meeting

Members of Teamster Local 563 on strike at the Pierce Auto Body Works, Inc. will meet Thursday at 8:30 a.m. at the Labor Hall to discuss the company's newest contract proposal.

Teamster representative, Robert Schieve said today he would withhold comment on the company's proposal until the striking members of the company have had a chance to view the offer.

No More Planned Negotiations Tuesday were broken off with no future meetings planned, Douglas Ogilvie, general manager of the firm said today. Ogilvie said the newest proposal for the union's consideration offered a work week reduction to 40 hours in three years, a sick leave and a contributable insurance plan.

Ogilvie's statement said the company went back to a contributable insurance plan after offering a non-contributable plan in exchange for the 40-hour work week and sick leave benefits.

Ogilvie said the company felt the negotiations were becoming more realistic in the consideration of bargaining requests by the union. Ogilvie said the strike settlement will be made through the newest proposal.

Teamsters have been on strike since Jan. 30.

City Workers Pact Changed

Penalties Agreed Upon by Board, Union Officials

KAUKAUNA — Additions to the working agreement with city employees were approved at a joint meeting of the board of public works and the city employees union representatives.

New clauses specify that, if an equipment operator loses his chauffeur's license he shall be demoted to common labor for two weeks. A second offense shall make him subject to suspension city election at a public Candidates Rally March 26, at Madison Junior High School.

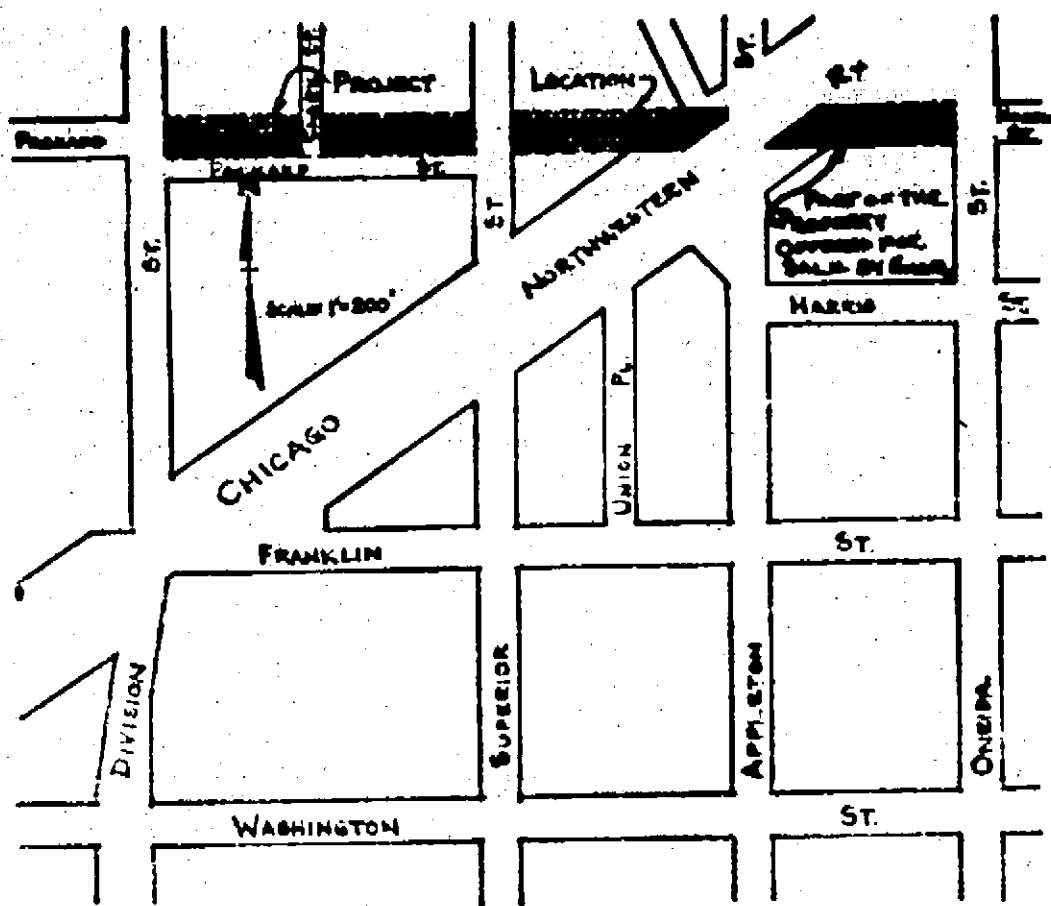

Individual ward meetings, pre-employment found drinking alcoholic beverages during working hours will be sent home by the wards, will precede a general meeting to which the candidates will be invited for the office of mayor and city attorney have been invited to appear.

Committee members planning this event are Mrs. Jack Weiner, Voters Service Chairman, assisted by Mrs. Maynard Burstein, Mrs. Robert Schuster, Mrs. I. B. Kindem, Mrs. Don Jury and Mrs. Ralph Sandgren.

Milwaukee Firm Has Low Bid for Truax

CHICAGO (AP)—Payne & Doland of Wisconsin, Inc., Milwaukee, was the apparent low bidder for improvements to the Air National Guard parking apron at Truax Field, Madison, Wis., the Army reported today.

The work consists of an overlay to the apron, installation of storm sewers and other related projects. Payne & Doland's bid was $199,967.60. The U.S. Army Engineers estimated the cost of the checked later and found she had job at $209,530.

This sketch by City Planner Walter Rasmussen shows how Packard and North streets could be extended so they would join to form a through east-west traffic carrier for Appleton's downtown area. The Chicago and North Western Railway has offered to sell the city the old depot between Oneida and Appleton streets for $43,500.

Committee Hits Solution On Harrison Attachment

Appleton, Kimberly, Kaukauna Getting Parts of District

The Harrison School attachment approved finally after a public hearing at Sherwood Tuesday.

Most of the lakeshore area will be attached to Kimberly. A small portion west of the Lake Park Road will go to Appleton, and another small area east of County Trunk N will go to Kaukauna. About 40 people attended the public hearing. Some residents of the area east of Lake Park Road continued their attachment to Appleton, but they were overruled by the committee's action.

One committee member described Tuesday's hearing as "peaceful." But the road leading up to the attachment decision has been a rocky one.

Petition Denied A petition to attach the entire lakeshore area to Appleton was denied by the joint committee in September. This decision was reversed in October, when an area with slightly different boundaries was attached to Appleton.

Residents called for a referendum on this order, and it was defeated in December voting. The next action was a petition to attach the area to Kaukauna, with the exception of the small portion west of Lake Park Road which was to be attached to Appleton.

At this point the committee decided its policy of "letting the people decide" was not working, and asked for recommendations from the Harrison town and school boards on the division of the area. The Kaukauna petition was defeated, and the resolution accepted last night was drawn up on the basis of these recommendations.

The rest of the Harrison district was attached to Kaukauna in December, with the exception of the area south of Sherwood previously attached to Hilbert. The town and school boards also suggested that part of the area south of Kimberly be detached from Kaukauna district and attached to Kimberly. No action can be taken on this until after the Kaukauna attachment order becomes effective July 1.

Girl Fined $25 for Loitering in Bar

Joyce V. Reetz, 18, 1813 N. Oneida St., was fined $25 Tuesday by Judge Gustave J. Keller for loitering in a liquor bar. Miss Reetz was arrested Sunday by Charles Evans, deputy, at Eddie Mullins Town Club, 1315 N. Richmond St. Evans said he had asked the girl to leave, but she checked later and found she had job at $209,530.

Insurance Insurgents Win Round

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Persons seeking to overthrow the present management of Lutheran Brotherhood Life Insurance Society won the latest court battle Tuesday.

District Judge Rolf Fosseen ordered the society to permit the insurgents to examine documents which management claims revoke requests for a special convention.

Insurgents previously said they have enough signatures on a call for a special convention but management said it has later letters from delegates cancelling their names from the list.

Judge Fosseen dismissed an other action against Carl P. Grand, brotherhood president, and John Lienemann, vice president, charging them with improper actions.

A-C Negotiations Resume, 'Central' Issues Studied

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Representatives of the striking United Auto Workers and of the Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. resume discussions today of local issues at the firm's main works at West Allis.

Other negotiators, meanwhile, are studying the so-called "central" bargaining issues which cover some 10,500 idle workers at seven A-C plants in six states. Workers at the seven plants went on strike at midnight Monday when the negotiators failed to agree on a contract. Central bargaining continued until early Tuesday before federal mediator William Rose of Philadelphia suspended the sessions until Thursday.

Bargaining over local issues between the company and Local 248 at the main A-C plant in suburban West Allis continued through most of Tuesday before the sessions were adjourned until 11 a.m. today.

Bargaining at a local level continued at five of the seven plants Tuesday.

Show to Open In Green Bay

Brown County Arena's solid ice floor will undergo a drastic change when the 3rd annual Green Bay Home and Garden Show moves into the arena Thursday at 5 p.m. for four days.

The show will be opened evenings Thursday and Friday and 1 p.m. to 11 p.m. Saturday, and 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Sunday.

Summer settings and special exhibits will be installed by the Green Bay Garden Club and Green Bay florists. Joint sponsors of the show are the Green Bay Real Estate Board and the Brown County Home Builders Assn. in co-operation with the garden club and 4-H clubs of Brown County.

The biggest of the gardens on display will be 52 feet wide and have a fountain which plays jets of water almost to the arena's ceiling.

Dr. Leo Murphy Again Chiropractors' Delegate

Dr. Leo J. Murphy, D.C., has been re-elected for his sixth two-year term as Wisconsin State Delegate of the National Chiropractic Association.

Dr. Murphy is Chairman of the Council of Delegates and will officiate in that capacity at the annual convention of the National Chiropractic Association in Detroit in July.

Unit Suggests City Acquire North Western Depot Site

Land Would be Included In Plan to Extend Traffic Artery in Downtown Area

Appleton's public safety committee is recommending that the city buy the Chicago and North Western Railroad depot between Appleton and Oneida streets as part of the property needed to extend both Packard and North streets.

The railroad now is offering the property for $43,500. That's $45,000 under its Sept. 26, 1960, price of $88,500.

The city never has taken any official action to extend the two streets, but has informally discussed it. North Street now ends at Oneida Street, while Packard ends at Superior Street.

$313,910 Project

There is a public roadway, built and maintained by the city on the south side of the depot property, but because it is not an official street the city's insurance carriers do not cover it.

A report by City Planner Walter Rasmussen says the entire cost of connecting the two streets would be about $313,910.

The city would have to acquire property from Division and Packard streets east to Appleton Street, in addition to the railroad land in order to connect the two street and form a through traffic carrier.

Packard Street between Division and Superior streets would be moved north, and would become a full width road. It now is only half a street.

Rasmussen estimates that right-of-way acquisition would cost $210,000; street and sidewalk construction, $84,910; and traffic signals and traffic flow pattern at the North and Oneida streets railroad crossing, $19,000.

Raze Depot

Because the railroad crossing at North and Oneida is at less than 90 degrees, Rasmussen says a special traffic flow pattern may have to be arranged.

The railroad would have to retain a very small portion of the depot property so that it has the required 25-foot right of way from the center of its mainline tracks (Chicago and North Western officials reported).

The city would have to pay for razing the old depot, and it would have to be done within five years.

If the city elects to extend the two streets so that they join, the depot, property must be purchased, Rasmussen says.

Also, he said, the city should obtain a firm commitment from the railroad to allow any necessary crossings for the extended

Milwaukee Man Fined $350, Goes to Jail

OSHKOSH — Dale Urbanak, 22, Milwaukee, drew fines totaling $350 and a two-day jail sentence from County Judge Arnold J. Cane this morning.

Urbanak pleaded guilty Monday of drunken driving, driving after revocation of his driver's license and unlawful use of another person's driver's license. A fourth charge, opening a can of beer in a moving car, was dismissed.

He was fined $150 on the first charge and $100 each on the other two and given the jail sentence for driving after revocation of his license, but time spent in jail awaiting sentence was deducted.

Urbanak was arrested by state police Saturday in the Town of Algoma.

There are Those Who Find Winter Has Been Good

Lack of Underground Frost Makes Many Operations Easy

BY RAY PY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

You may be in the minority if you think the winter has been bad.

For those whose livelihood depends on the weather, the winter has been "pretty good."

Mud beneath the surface and the drifting snow above ground have affected operations in cemeteries, excavations, power and telephone lines companies and on the farm, but the lack of a heavy frost under the ground has made winter work only "annoying," not troublesome.

Farm Problem Outagamie County Farm Agent John Powers pinpointed the greatest farm problem so far this winter has been the lack of space for farmers to store manure.

As far as the spring outlook, Powers said farmers are looking for a quick melting of the snow and a quick runoff due to the lack of frost.

If, however, the spring is a freeze and thaw season, damage could be done to the ground and plantings under the snow.

As for flooding, Powers said the "snow will be gone faster than most realize and the runoff shouldn't cause much problem."

Powers said rivers should open early this spring because the ice has not become too thick under the high snow.

In most areas of the city, the frost line is right on the surface, but Henry Fulcer, director of distribution of the Appleton water utility, said frost is running 3 1/2 feet deep under streets and roads where the snow has been cleared.

This month, four water services required emergency service for freezing, while last February, 60 customers required emergency service.

Suit Against Neenah Put Off

OSHKOSH — The civil suit of Millard C. Matthews, 142 State St., Neenah, against the City of Neenah, for payment of damages to his house and property resulting, he alleges, from a broken water main was adjourned Tuesday afternoon until 9:30 a.m. March 8 by County Judge Arnold J. Cane.

Testimony was taken Tuesday morning and afternoon and Matthews has not completed the presentation of his case. He charges a Neenah Street Department truck broke the water main while plowing snow and the city was negligent in not having the water turned off in that area.

Any Source of Power The ordinary operation of the vehicle's generator would easily replace the energy used, Johnston said.

Johnston said the magnets could be operated from almost any source of power, including either AC or DC lighting or power circuits.

A power failure would easily cause the magnet to release its load, Johnston emphasized. Once the magnet is energized it will hold a load indefinitely without any source of outside electrical power until it is intentionally demagnetized.

The magnets and their electronic controllers are fully covered by patent applications.

Shawano Man Dies In Kaukauna Office

Lawrence B. Derby, 62, route 3, Shawano, collapsed and died this morning at the office of Badger Northland Inc., 215 W. Second St., Kaukauna.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said the death was due to natural causes. Derby, a dealer for Badger Northland, arrived at the office at about 10 a.m. today and collapsed 10 to 15 minutes later, Kemps said. He was pronounced dead at the scene by a Kaukauna doctor. The body was taken to Fargo Funeral Home, Kaukauna, and will be taken to Shawano.

Aerial Streamers

Motorists Prove They Have Sense of Humor

BY LILLIAN MACKESY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A drive through Appleton's snow-banked streets proves that motorists are both ingenious and well stocked with a sense of humor.

It's worth a trip through the city just to note all the varieties of little (some big) red warning flags attached to car antennas.

Most prevalent are cloth streamers, pieces of red rag and bandannas both printed and plain, but some of the flags have an original touch. Many are scraps of red cloth that have been neatly tailored to pennant shape. Some have been carefully fringed, some neatly hemmed and others simply cut hurriedly into triangular form.

Hank of Yarn Motorists have taken to all sorts of materials and articles of clothing to use as warning flags. There are long streamers of red wool, borrowed from an unused hank of knitting yarn; there are silk scarfs of the ha-

According to present estimates, there are at least 100,000 planets in the universe similar to the earth in size and atmosphere! Perhaps in future

Three Accidents Investigated by Police Monday

KAUKAUNA—Police investigated three accidents Monday, all resulting in property damage but no injuries.

The first at 10:30 a.m. at Second Street and Reaume Avenue involved cars driven by Floyd H. Greenwood, 48, 843 Colonial Drive, Green Bay, and Joseph H. Schumacher, 20, 1011 W. Fourth St., Kimberly. A vehicle parked close to the crosswalk obstructing the view of the Green Bay man contributed to the accident, according to police.

Cars driven by Thomas A. McAndrews, 22, 902 Grignon St., Kaukauna, and Mrs. Genevieve Anderson, 20, 1 W. Ninth St., Kaukauna, collided at Hendricks Avenue and W. Eighth Street about 8:07 p.m.

At 10:45 p.m., cars driven by Joseph F. Van Linn, 25, 325 W. Seventh St., Kaukauna, and Ron Wozel, 27, route 3, Kaukauna, collided at 13th Street and Glenview Avenue. Van Linn was turning right onto 13th Street as Wozel approached from the west. Wozel was unable to stop in time to avoid the accident, police said.

May Revamp Meade Street Traffic Lights

State Highway Man
To Meet March 13
With Safety Group

Traffic signals at Meade Street and Wisconsin Avenue may be revamped soon.

Joseph T. Borchers of the Wisconsin Highway Commission, Madison, will meet with the public safety committee March 13 to discuss the traffic controls at the intersection and how they might be changed to provide better movement of traffic with greater safety.

The intersection has been the topic of much discussion and debate by aldermen for several years, and most recently because a young girl was killed there while crossing the street. There are no walk lights.

A traffic bottleneck exists at the intersection because Meade Street has a jog in it at Wisconsin Avenue.

Several plans have been drawn to relocate Meade south of the avenue so it will line up directly with Meade north of the avenue. The cost of purchasing necessary right of way and installation of underground utilities has been a deciding factor in postponing action.

Preliminary cost estimates indicate the price for relocating Meade from the railroad tracks to Wisconsin is about $140,000.

Opposition voiced. Vehement opposition to the relocation has been voiced by Ed Calmes, whose home and business property lie within the path of the relocated street. In November, the council listened for more than an hour while Calmes' attorney detailed Calmes' objections and why he thinks the relocated street will create a greater traffic hazard than exists now.

Calmes has offered the city his properties for $40,000 but the city has refused to pay it. Calmes says he is satisfied with his present home and business location and has no desire to move.

The city first considered condemning land needed for the relocation right of way but decided instead to put the proposed right of way on the official city street map so that no more buildings could be erected on the land. The ordinance putting the land on the street map was given final approval Feb. 7.

Obesity Related to 8 Major Diseases

There is a "hast accumulation of evidence that excess weight is not good for humans," Dr. William Bolton, associate editor of the American Medical Association's Today's Health magazine, said today.

Medical surveys have shown that eight conditions are significantly related to obesity, he said. They are coronary artery disease, diabetes, high blood pressure, disorders of the liver and gall bladder, greater risk in any operative procedure, unexpected formation of blood clots, deterioration of blood vessels in other parts of the body besides the heart, and arthritis, he said.

Since some of these conditions contribute to certain of the leading causes of death in this country, their association with obesity would appear to be important, he said.

Winter Not Bad for Some

heavy drifts of snow their hardest problem to tackle this year, but the digging below the surface is easy. One excavator said he would like to see a little more freezing to keep the dirt firm.

The city street department is presently completing two sewer projects within the city has found no frost to battle but has fought dirt slide in a new Oneida Street project. In a sewer project in a new subdivision where streets are incomplete, the department has had to dig out 10 to 12 foot drifts to continue digging operations.

It's not the frost that is holding up digging in cemeteries in the city, but high drifts are combating one. Highland Memorial Park officials said they have dug 20 graves during the winter months and have not encountered frost problems. At Riverside cemetery, 24 burials in the last three months have been placed in receiving vaults until high drifts melt in the spring.

Drifts as high or higher than 12 feet are reported in Riverside cemetery and according to one spokesman there it is more than they have seen in many years.

The Wisconsin Michigan Power Co. and the Wisconsin Telephone Co. report a good year with no heavy, freezing snow breaking lines.

Getting Around
"Our problem so far has been just in getting around," said one official, and everybody is having that problem this season.

There has been no curtailment on service operations during the heavy snow months, both firms report.

Jack Matthews, golf professional at the Riverview Country Club and greenskeeper, Oscar Behnke, plan an inspection of the golf course Thursday to see how much work will be necessary before the course is open this spring.

Matthews said indications are the course will be in good shape after the snow is gone. He said the frost in other years has been the largest factor in determining when the course can handle golfers.

streets. If it won't let the city cross its right of way, there's no use going ahead with the project, he said.

No Parking Need

The railroad's real estate agent recommended that the city develop some parking on land not needed for any other purpose. Rasmussen says he does not think that idea is feasible. The demand for parking in the depot area is very small because it is too far from the central business district.

Rasmussen says that until the depot would be razed it could be used for city storage purposes and save the rental on present storage lots.

Whether the city approves extending North and Packard probably will depend on what success it has on the already approved Washington and Franklin streets extensions. Both streets are scheduled for extension, but Franklin is to be done first.

East-West Carrier

Estimated cost of the two projects is $310,000.

Councilmen are unanimous in their belief that an east-west street already has paid $28,750 for three pieces of property to extend it north of College Avenue to move downtown traffic particularly to the west and north-west.

Committeemen Reject Meter Time Change

Ald. Tews, Stumpf
Would Make Limit
2 Hours Instead of 1

A move by Ald. Alvin Tews and Robert Stumpf to double the parking time limit in Appleton's central business district suffered its first defeat Tuesday when the public safety committee denied their resolution.

No indication was given as to whether the request would be pursued further on the council floor.

The aldermen requested increasing the time limit from one to two hours on College Avenue from Durkee to Walnut streets, and for one block north and south on streets that intersect with College. This is the area in which the council in March 1961 hiked meter rates from five cents an hour to 10 cents and established the one-hour limits.

Committee members were told that if during the time limit would cost $2.74 a meter to convert the timing mechanisms and instruction plates on the face of the meters. Approximately 400 meters would have to be changed.

Don't Confuse Public

The city spent more than $2,000 in March 1961 to convert the meters to their present rates and time limits. This included the elimination of pennies in downtown areas.

I don't think we should keep changing the meter regulations all the time, one committeeman said. We're only going to thoroughly confuse the public. I think the meters should stay as they are.

The other committee members chorused a large Committee chairman Stumpf, co-sponsor of the resolution, made no comment.
